Separate Treaty if Summit Fails: Reds

Indonesia Promised Big Loan

Would Put Berlin In East Control

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today said the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty giving East Germany control of West Berlin if the Big Four summit talks in May fail to reach agreement on an over-all German settlement.

Khrushchev spoke at a news conference following his return from Bogor, where he agreed to lend Indonesia a 250-million-dollar credit in an effort to check this Southeast Asian nation's slow drift Westward.

Threat Repeated

The Soviet threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany never has been abandoned, and in recent weeks has been repeated at intervals. But this was the first time Khrushchev had tied it to the outcome of the May summit conference.

"The question of Berlin is one of eliminating vestiges of World War II," the Soviet leader declared. "We cannot talk about peace without eliminating, these vestiges."

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union is trying to convince the West of the need for a peace treaty on all Germany. If this is not concluded, he said, the Soviet Union will sign a separate agreement with East Germany.

If that happens, he said, all postwar agreements affecting Germany "would cease to be valid," and West Berlin would come under the authority of Communist East Germany "because West Berlin stands on territory belonging to the (Communist) German Democratic Republic."

Rejected Plebiscite

Khrushchev also rejected the idea of a German plebiscite to determine whether the Soviet or Western plan for unification of that divided country should be accepted. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has been reported considering proposing such a plebisicite.

"We are not going to take part in such a plebisicite and we are against the participation of any other country in such a plebisicite since this would be interfering in the internal affairs of another country," Khrushchev declared.

The Western plan calls for establishment of an all-German government by free, U.N.-supervised elections in both parts of Germany. The Soviet Union proposes unification negotiations between the West and East German governments.

"A plebiscite in this or that state is the sole concern of the countries involved," Khrushchev said. "We are not neighbors of Germany. If they want to, the two German governments can come to agreement on this."

Would Exert All Efforts

The Soviet leader said he would "exert all efforts to bring the (summit) conference to a successful conclusion."

"I do believe in the good intentions of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan, and President Charles de Gaulle," he declared.

Khrushchev dodged the delicate question of Communist China and its current dispute with Indonesia over the resettlement of Chinese traders in rural Indonesian areas. He referred to Peiping only once and in a way designed to please his Indonesian hosts more than the Red Chinese.

Bigger Surplus Means More School Spending

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's hopes of getting his school-aid plan through the Legislature virtually disappeared today as top - level Republican sources forecast an 80-million-dollar budget surplus in 1960-61.

The Rockefeller budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1 proposed 25 million dollars to schools and a surplus of 32 million, which the Republican governor wants to keep for a reserve.

Under Pressure

But legislative leaders, under election-year pressure from rank-and-file members, insisted there is money for a far more liberal school program.

The leaders now say the 32 million surplus set by the governor and his fiscal advisers was badly underestimated and the total will be at least 48 million higher.

With this money, they say, school spending will be increased substantially beyond the governor's proposals and there still will be some money left for a reserve.

One leader—Senator Walter J. Mahoney—also has been discussing the possibility of a tax cut of $5 per taxpayer, in addition to the increased state school aid.

The governor's office had no immediate comment on the legislative challenge to the 32-million-dollar surplus total.

Proposed Boost

Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino has proposed a 70-million-dollar boost in aid to education but he and Mahoney are expected to agree on a joint program of about 50 million.

The Mahoney-Carlino plan, when drafted, is expected to clear the Legislature with little difficulty.

In other legislative developments:

1. Rockefeller's budget, which calls for record spending of $2,035,000,000 moves from committee to the Legislature today. A vote is scheduled for Wednesday. The budget is expected to emerge substantially as submitted. Any additional school spending or tax changes will be provided in the supplementary budget in the final days of the session.

Chest Meeting Is Set March 8 to Elect Directors

The Kingston Area Community Chest, Inc., will hold its annual membership meeting at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, March 8, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Sam S. Pepper, chairman for the annual meeting committee, said directors-at-large would be elected at the dinner meeting. The directors will be elected for two-year terms..

Those whose terms expire:

Stephen Gill, W. Henry Haltermann, James A. Hanstein, Robert B. Hasbrouck, Mrs. George Rifenbary, Dr. Herbert Schwartz, John J. Schwenk, Henry Singer and Robert Stedge.

The board consists of both directors-at-large, elected by the membership, and agency representatives, designated by the 10-member Red Feather agencies. Anyone who contributed to the last fund campaign is considered a member of the corporation and is eligible to vote.

Officers for the coming year will be elected by the new board when it organizes on March 16. Present officers are David Kline, president; W. Henry Haltermann, vice president; J. Douglas Masterson, treasurer, and Nellie A. Glennon, secretary.

Thieves Get $2,000 In Poughkeepsie Furs

Apparently using a key, burglars entered Frank's Exclusive Furs, Inc., store at 20 Liberty Street, Poughkeepsie, Sunday afternoon and made a getaway with fur pieces valued at $2,008.50 while a 14-year-old boy stood nearby.

The daylight burglary occurred shortly before 12:30 p. m. according to Police Chief John L. Martin, who said several persons had been questioned but no arrests had been made at 11 a. m. today.

Boy Sees Thieves

Joseph J. Lutz Jr., of 242 Mansion Street, was an eyewitness to the daring burglary. The boy was standing at Liberty and Cannon Streets looking in a showcase of the former Stratford theatre, when he saw a man and woman acting suspicious in the doorway of the fur shop.

As the boy walked past the store, he saw two other men leave the establishment each carrying a bag. The three men and the woman hurriedly made their way to a parking lot at the rear of the theatre. As the boy watched the strangers, he saw two men throw the bags in the rear of a dirty station wagon, the make of which is known to authorities.

The burglars and their lookouts drove from the parking lot and headed east in Cannon Street. The boy hurried a couple of blocks to police headquarters where he notified Lieutenant George Traver.

Detective Sergeant James Murphy, Detectives Francis Doerr, John Doss and Frank Dunlap and Patrolman John Campion were assigned to the case. While they hurried to the fur store, Lieutenant Traver telephoned Sydney C. Yudell, proprietor of the shop, who went to the store to investigate.

A checkup of merchandise disclosed 14 fur pieces valued at $2,008.50 were missing. Teletype alarms were immediately sent out and police throughout the Hudson Valley including Kingston and area state troopers were alerted.

Roadblocks were set up around the City and Town of Poughkeepsie but no trace of the station wagon or occupants was reported.

Chief Martin said investigation showed no evidence of a forced entry. He said the burglars apparently used a key to enter the store, which is less than a block from the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie Inn and other hotels and apartment houses.

Detectives checked motor vehicle listings of station wagons at the Dutchess County Auto Bureau, seeking a clue which might lead to arrests and recovery of the stolen fur pieces.

Hercules Safety Supervisor Going To Capital Parley

President Eisenhower has invited H. M. Lynch Jr., safety and personnel supervisor at Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen to attend the President's Conference on Occupational Safety, in Washington, D. C., March 1-3.

The conference will bring together in the nation"s capital more than 3,000 leaders from American industry, labor, agriculture, federal, state and local governments, insurance, education, health, and private safety organizations from all parts of the country.

Their purpose is to devise and then apply voluntary, cooperative means for reducing the 13,300 deaths and nearly two million disabling injuries occuring

Ellenville Vols Commended For Work During Arson Wave

Ellenville's Fire Chief Purvis Damms has commended village firemen for the "outstanding service" they performed during the series of fires that plagued the community, investigation of which resulted in the arrest of a 29-year-old volunteer fireman on charges of first degree arson.

Herman Krom, of 6 Oak Street, in the village, father of five children, is awaiting grand jury action. Police Chief Frank Groppe said Krom claims he set several fires in the village for "excitement."

In a statement today, Fire Chief Damms said volunteer firemen worked 15 to 20 hours a day on shifts during their patrol of the village streets, in addition to working eight to 10 hours at their regular jobs.

The chief cited two reasons why the fire loss had been kept down. First, he said, some firemen remained at the firehouses during the early evening hours and were able to get apparatus and equipment to the scene of the fires without delay.

Second, the chief noted, last fall pre-connected hose lines were attached to the trucks, enabling the firemen to attack the fires with a large hose, pumping water from the trucks while other firemen connected hose lines to hydrants in the fire area.

Chief Damms praised Napanoch and Wawarsing Fire Departments, and residents who permitted firemen to enter their homes and business places in an effort to learn the identity of an arsonist. The chief also complimented the Ellenville Modern Food Market for coffee donated at one of the major fires.

"All I can do is echo the words of a high New York City fire official, who said after inspecting some of the burned buildings, 'Ellenville has a very efficient fire department to keep down the fire loss,'" Chief Damms said.

Police officials said Krom in his confession allegedly admitted setting the fire at the Ellenville Lumber Company which caused approximately $75,000 damage about three weeks ago. Authities said that Krom drove fire apparatus to the scene of some of the fires and assisted other firemen in combatting the flames.

CAR OVERTURNS—Two persons were taken to Benedictine Hospital early Sunday morning after their car overturned on Route 28, West Hurley. Teresa Betley, 23, the driver, and Rita Schaefer, 26, both of 80 Bruyn avenue, were treated and released. They were proceeding east in a 1955 sedan when the vehicle skidded into a snow bank and turned over, coming to rest in the eastbound lane. Trooper Henry Ganss of the Kingston state police investigated.

Body of Woman Is Found At Milton, DA Holds Probe

The body of a woman, identified as Rose Green, 46, was found early this morning at the Hepworth Fruit Farm, Milton.

State Police of Highland District Attorney Raymond J. Mino and Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torraca at press time were questioning several persons in an endeavor to ascertain the cause of death. Coroner Michael Galietta had ordered an autopsy.

According to State Police at the Highland Station Harold Watkins reported shortly after 7:30 a. m. today that he had found the body of Rose Green lying some distance from a car in which she had been sleeping.

From the investigation thus far made State Police reported three men and a woman, Rose Green, had been involved in a drinking party Sunday night. While they were seated in a car, state police reported Johanna Howard, 29, arrived at the scene shortly before 9 p. m. and evicted the woman from the car. One of the occupants was her husband, Clemon Howard. It was alleged that in the fracas the woman was struck in the face with a flashlight. After evicting the woman, Mrs. Howard drove the car home, leaving the Green woman with one of the men.

The names of the other men had not been ascertained at press time and the investigation was still underway.

Local Police Attend Meeting About Drugs

A federal narcotics official said Saturday in New York the two-year wall of silence surrounding the notorious Apalachin underworld gathering has been pierced at last.

It dealt primarily with enforcing "an edict for all members to cease and desist from trafficking in narcotics," the official said.

He added that the 60-odd delegates also discussed "the Mafia taking over gambling in Nevada and the Cuban gambling operation." The Mafia is an international underworld society which was spawned many years ago in Sicily.

Among 300 representatives of police organizations and social workers who heard the federal official talk at the Metropolitan Law Enforcement Conference, Manhattan College Institute for Forensic Research were Police Chief Robert F. Murphy and three Kingston detectives, Albert Hutton, Leonard Ellsworth and Charles McCullough. They attended the symposium on illicit narcotics in line with the local program to educate officers for more efficiency in police work.

Many of those who attended the upstate gathering have been jailed for refusing to reveal what authorities termed the real reason for it.

Charles Siragusa, a field supervisor for the Federal Narcotics Bureau said that agents of his bureau finally had managed to pry out some of the purposes of the Nov. 14, 1957, parley at Apalachin, N. Y.

Siragusa said the agents had wrested the secrets through penetration of underworld groups and, in some cases, conversation with those actually present.

But he added:

"The agenda of the Apalachin meeting will never become fully known to law enforcement officers."

Siragusa did not specify why he thought so.

There has long been speculation that the conclave was concerned with a battle for power among some of the nation's topmost underworld rulers. Siragusa said that actually was one of the purposes.

He described this as "the dispute for power between Vito Genovese and the Frank Costello factions," but gave no details.

Genovese has been described by the Federal Government as "King of the Rackets" and U. S. chief of the "Black Hand" Mafia crime empire.

On Feb. 11 he began serving a 15-year prison term for narcotics conspiracy.

Stone Ridge Vols Answer Radio Call From High Falls

High Falls Fire Chief Sterling Jansen radioed for assistance from the scene of a blaze early Saturday evening and got it, but the hard way.

The High Falls Fire Company had responded to the property of Lloyd Snow on Canal Road about two miles from the Town of Marbletown dump. A large two-story frame building used as a machine shop and for storage was involved in flames. Adjacent buildings were threatened. Chief Jansen needed help.

He broadcast a message asking anyone who heard him to telephone the Stone Ridge Fire Company for assistance.

In Cornwall - on - the - Hudson some 60 miles away Timothy J. Stillman, deputy assistant in charge of the fire school inspection program for the New York Division of Safety, Albany, heard the appeal and immediately telephoned the Rev. David W. Arnold, rector of the Episcopal Church in Stone Ridge and chief of Stone Ridge Fire Company.

A few minutes later Father Arnold and some of the Stone Ridge volunteers were dashing toward High Falls. They had precise directions from Stillman.

Father Arnold said today, when queried by The Freeman, that an attempt to sound the fire siren at the Stone Ridge fire station failed because of mechanical difficulties but that he and a "handful" of men reached the scene and assisted in

VA Rescinds July 1 Order For Castle Point Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration has cancelled a plan to reduce the number of beds at the Castle Points Veterans Hospital near Beacon, N.Y.

The VA had planned to drop the average daily patient load at the hospital from 230 to 200 July 1.

Rep. J. Ernest Wharton (R-NY) said today the Va has rescinded this and that a new policy actually will increase the hospital's service.

Veterans organizations and auxiliaries in Ulster County and the four others in Wharton's 29th Congressional District flooded their Representative with petitions opposing the hospital cut-back.

The number of tuberculosis patients at the hospital, Wharton said, will be cut from 200 to 180 on July 1, but this will be offset by an increase in the number of general medical patients from 30 to 50.

"Since the turnover of general medical patients far exceeds that for tuberculosis patients," Wharton said, "this decision means that the Castle Point hospital actually will be able to promote care for a greater number of veterans patients."

Veterans groups have been fighting the cutback in hospital beds at Castle Point. They enlisted Wharton's aid in their fight about a year ago.

The hospital, five miles north of Beacon, once had beds for 700 TB victims.

The Veterans Administration said the reason for the cutback in TB patients at the hospital is the rapid rate in which the disease is being brought under control.

Tour Made Through Santiago

Stop Intervention Plan of 2 Leaders

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Eisenhower today flew into friendly Chile to see a nation prospering by economic belt-tightening. It was the third stop of his four-nation Latin-American tour.

The first U.S. President ever to visit this country, Eisenhower was assured a warm welcome during his two-day stay with Chileans noted for their hospitality.

Greeted by President

The ceremonies at Santiago's modern Los Cerrillos Airport were brief with Eisenhower reviewing the honor guard and then setting out for an hour's drive through the capital in an open car.

Crowds lined the route to the U.S. Embassy residence along broad, tree-lined Alameda Bernardo O'Higgins, named for Chile's national hero.

Chileans Go All Out

The enthusiastic Chileans went all out to match with hospitality the welcomes accorded Eisenhower by their richer and bigger neighbors, Brazil and Argentina.

Eisenhower, who has begun to show at times the physical strain of his grueling tour in tropical temperatures, was to lunch privately at the embassy before setting out on an afternoon of official ceremonies.

The afternoon schedule included the placing of a wreath at the monument to O'Higgins and then a formal call on Alessandri in the Presidential Palace to be followed by a private talk between the two Presidents.

Chile and the United States have long enjoyed friendly relations, and no political issues confront the two leaders.

Plagued by Inflation

Chile, with about 7½ million people crowded into an area of less than 300,000 miles, has been plagued with one of the worst cases of inflation in Latin America. The Alessandri government has won the support of the U.S. government and banks by instituting an austerity program that has

Man on Probation For Slashing Held As Drunk Driver

Cleaster Hardin, 35, of 221 East Strand, who is now on probation for a cutting incident earlier this month, was arrested Saturday evening on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Hardin was arrested by Trooper Henry Ganss of the Kingston state police on the westerly side of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, at 8:30 p. m.

He entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan of the town of Kingston. Judge Ferrigan revoked his license and sentenced him to 90 days in jail or payment of a fine of $100. Hardin was committed to the Ulster County jail in lieu of payment.

Hardin was arrested Feb. 12 on a second degree assault charge after a report that he had cut his father, Major Hardin, 53, of 18 Ann Street, with a razor blade.

He pleaded guilty to the lesser charge of third degree assault and City Judge Aaron Klein imposed a suspended sentence of a year in jail and placed him on probation for a period not to exceed three years. The plea to the lesser charge was on consent of the complainant, counsel, and the district attorney's office, represented by Attorney John E. Gotelli.

Police said Hardin had cut his father on the left arm and side. The latter was treated at Kingston Hospital, where 39 sutures were used in closing the wounds.

The defendant, police said, had been arrested on similar assault charges for inflicting wounds on a man in September, 1958, and again on complaint of another man in January, 1959.

March 13, 7:30 p. m., Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of Old Dutch Church, will conduct service.

March 20, 7:30 p. m., services at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer with the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, pastor of Fair Street Reformed Church, presiding.

March 27, 7:30 p. m., Old Dutch Church, the Rev. Harold J. Stephanz, pastor of First Baptist Church, will deliver the sermon.

April 3, 7:30 p. m., services will be held at First Baptist Church with the Rev. Clyde Herbert Snell, PhD, pastor of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, officiating.

April 10, 7:30 p. m. at St. James Methodist Church a Lenten cantata will be presented.

Mid-day services will be held starting April 11 and continuing through April 14 daily from 12:25 to 12:55 p. m. at the Old Dutch Church. Good Friday service will be held April 15 frm 12 noon to 3 p. m. at the Fair Street Reformed Church. Topic will be The Seven Last Words. Pastors will be announced at a later date.

Communion Breakfast

Sunday, June 5, 7 a. m. the annual men's communion breakfast will be held at the Old Dutch Church. Attorney Frederick H. Stang will be the guest speaker.

The council went on record as opposing Section 9, Article 1 of the amendment to the state constitution which would authorize lottery and sale of lottery tickets conducted under jurisdiction and supervision of any city with net proceeds to be used for city purposes as may be prescribed by legislation. The council also opposes the portion of Section 9, Article 1 which would authorize the sale of lottery tickets by department or agency with proceeds to be used for the aid of hospitals and for combatting juvenile delinquency.

However, the Kingston council went on record as favoring Section 484-D of the penal law to make it an offense for any person to purchase alcoholic beverages for on premise consumption for minors under the age of 18.

Plan Bible School

Plans are being made by the council to hold and promote vacation Bible school again this summer at several of its member churches.

In the near future the Kingston council will start sending monthly news letters to member churches for distribution to their congregations.

The Council of Churches is now in the process of inviting additional arear churches to join the council.

The next meeting of the council's executive committee will be held at the parish house of the Church of the Redeemer March 24, 7:45 p. m.

11 Die in Traffic

Three children in another family were among four persons who died in fires. The children were trapped in a flaming farmhouse while firemen struggled to get through a snow-clogged road.

3 Persons Accused Of Gun Violations

Three persons were arrested Sunday by Ellenville state police on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm and were committed to the Ulster County jail to await action of the grand jury.

Wayne Goodrich, 20, his wife, also 20, of Pt. St. Joe, Fla., and David Dow, 20, of Brockport, Mass., were released this morning in the custody of John Goodin of Pittsfield, Mass.

Goodrich and Dow are stationed at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla. They were on their way to visit relatives in Massachusetts.

Trooper William Brennan said a .22 caliber revolver with four live rounds of ammunition was found in the glove compartment of the vehicle during a routine check. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel of Kerhonkson.

Will Ask Judge For Final Date On Ryan Motions

Justice Henry Clay Greenberg will be asked Thursday to set an "outside date" in which all motions in the Morgan D. Ryan bribery case may be addressed to the court. This motion on the part of the prosecution will be for the purpose of fixing a final date for all motions in order that the case may be moved for trial.

Judge Greenberg will be asked to set a date beyond which no further motions may be made on the part of the defendant.

It was also made known today that the prosecution would move the Harry Bareika, Harry Bareika Inc., Walters Motor Truck Company and the Rand-MacMurray Inc., conspiracy indictments to the trial calendar so that Judge Greenberg may fix a date for trial.

At the same time sentence is to be scheduled to be pronounced in the Anthony Macera conspiracy case. Macera entered a plea of guilty to a two count conspiracy indictment last Thursday. Macera of Catskill was manager of the Athens plant of the Westchester Asphalt Distributing Company.

The firefighting minister was sharp in his criticism of the Board of Supervisors this morning, charging that the new $100,000 two-way radio system in the county, funds for which were appropriated two years ago, is still not in operation because of "politics."

He said the radio system is capable of operation, and has been since November, but that the Board of Supervisors has appointed no one to man the equipment. He said there has been a lot of "buck passing back and forth" and that the county still has no dispatchers.

Headquarters for the new two-way system is located at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital on Golden Hill, Kingston.

Third Graders Visit Newspaper; View Operation

A third grade class from Main Street School, Alice Van Brink, teacher, visited a local newspaper plant last week.

The group was shown through the Catskill Mountain Star newspaper office and printing rooms by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fellows.

Editor Fellows described the processes involved in getting news stories, getting a paper ready for printing, doing the printing, and getting copies to readers. He explained the uses of such machines as the linotype, printing press and folding and cutting machines. He and Mrs. Fellows escorted the children through the printing and melting rooms, so they could see these machines in operation.

At the close of the tour Fellows answered any questions the children had and allowed children to bring home copies of the next day's paper and samples of linotype.

The group was accompanied by Room Mothers Mrs. Peter Pocalyko, Mrs. Gordon Keeley and Mrs. Henry Murphy.

Hyde Park School Hearing Slated on $1,319,000 Bonds

Taxpayers in the Hyde Park Central School district will attend a public hearing today at 8 p. m. at the Roosevelt High School to discuss the $1,319,000 referendum to be voted on Wednesday.

Tonight's meeting was called by the Board of Education for the purpose of giving the district taxpayers an opportunity to ask questions about the three bond issues to be voted on Wednesday, when the polls will be open from 12 noon until 9 p. m.

The referendum was defeated a few weeks ago when the issue was submitted to the district voters in one proposition. Three propositions will be presented on Wednesday.

Proposition One is for the purchase of the Haviland property adjacent to the high school at a cost of $16,000 for the 3.5-acre site. Proposition Two involves two additions and alterations to the district's three elementary schools at a cost of $347,000, and the third proposition is for a new three-unit elementary school costing $956,000 on the Finkbeiner site in Netherwood Road. The latter figure includes development and site purchase.

Reports from Hyde Park indicate the Parent-Teacher Associations of the Roosevelt High School and Haviland Junior High School are unanimously in favor of the forthcoming bond issues in the district.

Some district residents have taken issue with the statements made recently by the Hyde Park-Fairview Renters and Taxpayers' Association, contending that the group does not represent the people in the district or their opinions.

A spokesman at the Roosevelt High School said today that members of the Board of Education, the architect, consultants and representatives of citizens group will attend tonight's public hearing to answer questions about the bond issues and to explain in detail the building and development program.

Micholowski Is Fair

The condition of John Micholowski, 49, formerly of Albany, who was taken to Kingston Hospital early Friday, for treatment of a throat laceration, was reported as "fair" today. Police said Micholowski had cut himself in a suicide attempt. He was found on the floor of the lavatory at the Trailways bus terminal. Police said he had formerly lived at the Albany YMCA and had stayed recently at the Hotel Eichler, Railroad Avenue.

Late Bulletin

Local Police

ed as another overlord of American rackets. He now is serving time for income evasion and a move to deport him to his native Sicily was upheld by the U. S. Court of Appeals N. Y. earlier this month.

Twenty-one of the men present at Apalachin were recently convicted of conspiring to obstruct justice by refusing to say what transpired there.

Describing the narcotics agents' findings, Siragusa said:

"Several of our outstanding undercover agents were told that the crime syndicate elders had promulgated an edict for all members to cease and desist from trafficking in narcotics."

Reprisals Occur

Siragusa said reprisals for those who disobeyed the order were "subsequently manifested by the murders of a few top ranking gangsters who chose to violate the edict of their criminal bosses."

He added that "another item reportedly on the Mafia agenda at Apalachin related to the necessity of continuing to take reprisals against witnesses in pending narcotic indictments."

These reprisals eventually occurred, said Siragusa.

A few months ago, he said, the Chicago faction of the Mafia murdered a government witness against violators in New York and Chicago.

Shortly before that, Siragusa said, three thugs beat to death a 70-year-old man slated to be an important witness in a narcotics case.

He gave no further details on these cases but asserted:

"We know the identities of the murderers but lack the evidence even to arrest them, much less for their prosecution."

Kingston Man Suffers Injuries; Struck by Car

C. Edward Rowe, 58, of 343 Clifton Avenue, operator of Rowe's Apiaries, at that address, suffered head, back and other injuries, when he was struck by a car near 363 Foxhall Avenue at about 10:15 a. m. today.

A Kingston Hospital report this afternoon said his condition was serious.

Police said he was struck when he got out of a truck and stepped in front of a car driven south on Foxhall Avenue by John Rinaldo, 41, of Decker Street, Town of Ulster.

A first report indicated he had suffered a deep laceration of the forehead and the other injuries.

Officers Meyer Levy and Francis Buchanan with Sgt. Julius Glassman investigated. Photographs were taken by Detective William Slover. Mr. Rowe was taken to the hospital in a Fatum ambulance.

B'nai B'rith Men To Hear Freedom Fighter's Address

Brotherhood—the only answer, will be the theme expounded by John Stanley Grauel, at B'nai B'rith men's open meeting at New Hotel Kingston 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Arnold Pinsly, president, has extended personal invitations to many of the local service organizations to attend this climax to National Brotherhood Week.

Grauel, a life-long champion of freedom of thought and belief, has fought for the new democracy, Israel, both with words and deeds. At the end of World War II he helped organize the American Christian Palestine Committee to aid the Europe's surviving Jews. As a member of Haganah, the Jewish underground, he helped deliver many refugees to saftey and freedom. As a volunteer crew member of the historic refugee ship "Exodus 1947", he was able to write an eye-witness account of the flight that eventually was an important factor in the formulation of the UN resolution on Palestine and the establishment of the free and independent State of Israel.

During Israel's war of liberation, Grauel served as an advisor and helped raise funds and materials that hastened Israel's victory. A man of many places and interests, the speaker, reknowned for his dynamic platform abilities, has recently returned from an extensive survey trp to Israel, Turkey, Europe and North Africa.

Grauel, no stranger to Kingston, spoke a few years ago at Congregation Ahavath Israel in commemoration of Israel Independence Day.

Seymour Werbalowsky, program chairman announced that refreshments, courtesy the B'nai B'rith lodge, will be served.

Dutchess 4H Club Names Delegates

Patricia Stowe, Poughquag, and Richard Whalen, Millbrook, will represent Dutchess County today and tomorrow on the 25th annual 4-H Club Capitol Day trip to Albany.

Patricia has been a club member for 10 years, Richard for six. This year she is serving as a junior leader of the Good Luck Club. Richard is a member of the Central Dutchess Dairy Club.

Educating Users, Research Plan Is Advised on Milk

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — A program emphasizing research and consumer education could solve the long dispute on how to promote milk from the New York milkshed, a cooperative maintains.

The Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives suggested the program Saturday as an alternative to an advertising approach farmers previously had rejected.

The program, which would cost a million dollars, would concentrate on research and analysis in the fields of anti-biotics, effects of cholesterol, dietetics, milk substitutes and the alleged dangers of strontium 90 from radioactive fallout.

Kenneth A. Shaul of Cobleskill, Mutual president, said it was time that responsible dairy organizations direct their efforts to these matters, which, he said, have received so much notoriety in the last five years.

"Confidence must blot out fears if we producers are going to truly carry out our responsibilities to the industry," he said.

Mutual said that, to finance the program, an amendment to the federal milk - marketing order would be needed to require the 50,000 farmers in the milkshed to contribute one cent per hundredweight, or 46.5 quarts, of milk sold.

Hearings must be held and farmers must approve any amendent to the marketing order.

The rejected promotion proposal involved a one-cent per hundredweight payment on a voluntary basis. The program was dropped when more than 25 per cent of the farmers who ship to the New York-New Jersey area objected.

The milkshed's four major cooperatives or an organization of cooperative representatives would administer the Mutual plan.

The other three cooperatives, Dairymen's League, Metropolitan Bargaining Agency and Eastern Milk Producers, have been advised of the proposal but have taken no position, Mutual said.

Eastern favors an advertising program where farmers would contribute three cents a hundredweight voluntarily. The advertising would be done by the American Dairy Assn. and the National Dairy Council.

CYO Girls Hold Shooting Contest

Winners of the Girls' CYO Foul Shooting contest, held Saturday, have been announced. Prior to the shoot, the girls attended Mass at St. Joseph's Church and then had Communion breakfast in the school.

First three places in the midget class went to Mary Anne Mauceri, St. Joseph's of Kingston; Lynn Tucker, Immaculate Conception, Kingston and Carol Witkowski, Immaculate Conception, Kingston.

In the Elementary class, Susan Sapp, St. Joseph's of Kingston; Monica Mauceri, St. Joseph's of Kingston and Joanne Auletta, St. Peter's of Rosendale, were the top three.

In the Junior division, the high three were JoAnn Tucker, Immaculate Conception of Kingston; Maureen Rapp, St. Joseph's of Kingston and Angela Murphy, St. Joseph's of Kingston.

Intermediate winners were Jeanne Helmich, St. Peter's of Rosendale; Marilyn Long, St. Joseph's of Kingston and Regina Bruck, St. Mary's of Kingston.

The playoff game for first place between St. Joseph's and Immaculate Conception in the Girls' Intermediate CYO League will take place tonight, 6:45 o'clock in the George Washington School gym. The winner will represent Ulster County in the upstate playoffs, scheduled at St. John's of Beacon gym on Sunday, Mar. 13, at 4 o'clock.

Bandit Needs Police

Pretending he had a gun, a man took $30 from the till of a gasoline station run by Jewel Fitzgerald, 24.

When he demanded more money and seized Fitzgerald by the collar, Fitzgerald grabbed him by the neck and choked him insensible.

New Baby's Arrival Makes Things Lonesome for Joe

Before Joe's little sister arrived, people told him many soothing,interesting things about babies. They said that the baby would admire him because he was three years old; that it would play with him on rainy days, etc. So it took about four months for Joe to discover they'd lied and to feel his own scared jealous feelings for the displacing baby.

Then the feelings overwhelmed him.

At first he expressed them by trying to puh the baby off his mother's lap when she was feeding it. When he found that this effort to recover her whole lap was unacceptable, he tried to recover part of it.

He'd rush for his mother Goose book and, struggling to climb up on her lap with the baby, insist on her reading it to him. Finally, when he was convinced that the baby intended to monopolize her lap, he got deeply discouraged.

Told to run away and play, he'd sink down on the floor beside the sofa; putting his thumb in his mouth, he'd lose himself in dreams of his own happy, monopolizing past.

In his book "The Origins of Love and Hate," British psychiatrist Ian D. Suttie has a message for mommy. He writes of the little child's aim "to recover that love rapport in which there was no competition, no grudging, no suspicion."

And suggests that it is the frustration of this aim that accounts for the difficult behavior we so often observe.

If this is true (and I think it is) then the kind of comfort Joe needs is our awareness of this aim and its frustration. We would be wise, I feel, to put this awareness into words.

When Joe tries to climb up on our lap and displace the enemy who seems to have stolen the old love rapport, we might try suggesting that there is no need for struggle.

We might say, "You don't have to get rid of the baby to make me love you the way I used to. Sit beside me here while I feed the baby so you can feel that I love you."

It is the idea that he has to fight for love that is so new and terrifying to Joe.

If you put into words this idea so full of strangeness and threat for him, it loses some of its terror. He does not have to bear it frightened, alone and misunderstood. It is shared, accepted and so becomes less frightening.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 29, 1960

SOON: 'PLAY BALL!'

Hopeful youngsters and established stars are heading for Florida and Arizona training camps now to get in shape for another baseball season. Fans throughout the country, who have been existing on a thin diet of speculation, winter trades and memories, soon will have something to sink their teeth into.

On March 12, the opening games of the Grapefruit League season start. These, which will continue until the boys start playing for keeps in April, will give managers a line on the new crop and the prospects of the mature talent.

They also may provide partial answers to questions of high priority among the fans. Will aging Ted Williams' neck miseries permit him to play another season or will he decide to call it a day? Will Stan Musial, another oldster, come back after a bad 1959 performance? Will Mickey Mantle shake off last year's slump and get the New York Yankees back on the beam?

How will Willie Mays perform in San Francisco's new Candlestick park? And will Willie McCovey, the Giants' kid first baseman, hit as he did after being called up last year? Is Larry Sherry, hero of the last series, really as good a pitcher as he was against the Chicago White Sox? How will the Milwaukee Braves perform under their new manager, Chuck Dressen?

This barely scratches the surface of inquiry, but answers of a sort soon will be coming. The sports pages are about to assume new interest for the baseball addict.

A poll outfit says the independent vote is mighty important to the GOP. Just as long as it doesn't stay too independent to vote Republican, that is.

GRACE ON ICE

Classical ballet is most often put forward as the ultimate in beauty and grace of human motion. Yet to our mind a good case could be made for the contention that figure skating, rather than ballet, most richly deserves the honor.

The feeling was reinforced when we saw films of Carol Heiss darting through the maneuvers that won her the women's figure skating championship in the Winter Olympics. Ballet is lovely, but in skating the human body most nearly approaches the swift, free winging of a bird in flight.

It is this spurning of gravity, this almost-flying, that so enchants the viewer when a good performer is on the ice. That figure gliding, leaping, turning and then swiftly gliding again seems no longer earthbound.

It is a pity that such exhilarating motion is denied to all but a handful of human beings. It is a pity that most of us, whether for lack of aptitude or lack of practice, count skating backwards in a circle our highest achievement on ice. Ah, well, one can watch the experts—and dream of what they feel as they leap and glide.

If you aren't home when the census taker calls, he'll call again. You're down for the count regardless.

THE VIRULENT FLU

Remember the Asian flu crisis a couple of years ago? Remember the warnings that a possibly disastrous epidemic might sweep the country? In reality, the impact of the disease was far less severe than had generally been expected.

This year the situation is reversed. The widespread outbreak of Asian flu arrived quietly, without fanfare. No one seemed much excited about it. But health authorities believe that the swathe the disease is cutting this winter may be wider and more deadly than that of 1957-58.

After the first outbreak, many thought medical authorities had exaggerated the danger. This may partly account for the fact that the public was not vigorously exhorted to get flu inoculations this time. The present outbreak seems to teach the lesson that plenty of warning and exhortation, even at the risk of finding a disease's bark worse than its bite, would best serve the public interest.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE CHESSMAN CASE

The most astonishing item in the Chessman case is the general avoidance of mention of the crimes that Caryl Chessman committed. In all that is said about this man, little comment is upon the fact that he committed rape, was a sex pervert, a robber, a kidnaper, a sadist and was arrested for these crimes.

Mrs. Ruth Shaw, mother of one of the girls he raped, had this to say:

"My daughter, Mary Alice, was only 17 when he kidnaped her, tore her clothes off of her and for four endless hours terrified her, hurt her, sadistically abused her and caused her to lose her mind and life among normal human beings."

Chessman's criminal record started in 1937 and ended with his apprehension in 1948. Why the State Department should violate the Constitution of the United States to seek a reprieve from the judgment of the courts for such a person can only be explained by a total negation of the sanction of law in our civilization. The excuse that the rapist, Chessman, has become a hero to certain elements in South America, only reflects upon those elements; it must not be permitted to serve as a precedent for dictated judicial procedure. Else, our courts crumble into dust and our laws become the whim of our rulers.

Governor Pat Brown of California has raised an altogether false issue, namely, capital punishment. Whether capital punishment is morally correct or not is a matter of private conscience. If the Governor said that it is against his conscience to permit anyone, even a murderer or a rapist or a kidnaper, to be given the death penalty and that as a moral sanction, he, the governor, will pardon or reprieve such persons, that is his privilege and he must accept the consequences of his decision. But Governor Brown did not say that. What he did say was:

"I was informed that there could be concern in the matter in view of President Eisenhower's trip. That moved me more than anything else."

The history of the reprieve seems to be that Richard R. Rogan, Chief Deputy Attorney General of California, solicited the support of the Federal government for aid for a reprieve for Chessman. This was done despite the fact that Chessman was tried in California courts and he is a California convict. Roy R. Rubottom, Jr., in charge of the Inter-American Desk of the State Department, sent a telegram to Governor Brown suggesting the reprieve.

It is not usual in State Department procedure for a man on Rubottom's level to send such a message, with its political connotations, without the approval of an Under Secretary of State or the Secretary himself. It is to be presumed that Rubottom submitted his telegram to his superiors and that they approved. Lincoln White, press officer of the State Department, is reported to have said that Under Secretary Douglas Dillon approved the Rubottom telegram and that a copy was sent to the White House.

The Constitution of the United States in no place authorizes the President or the State Department to dictate the course of judicial procedure of any state. On the contrary, the Constitution specifies in the Tenth Amendment:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

In Kansas vs. Colorado, the Supreme Court held:

"This amendment . . . disclosed the widespread fear that the National Government might, under the pressure of a supposed general welfare, attempt to exercise powers which had not been granted. With equal determination the framers intended that no such assumption should ever find justification in the organic act, and that if in the future further powers seemed necessary they should be granted by the people in the manner they had provided for amending that act. . . ."

The Constitution is flexible but it is not so flexible that it abolishes itself by Executive judgment. In fact in the Sick Chicken Case (Schechter Poultry Corporation vs. United States), the court held:

". . . Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies. But the argument necessarily stops short of an attempt to justify action which lies outside the sphere of constitutional authority. Extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge constitutional powers. . . ."

'Butterfly Disease' Is Sign Of Internal Disorders

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A correspondent whose intended bride has "butterfly disease" wants to know how serious this affliction is and whether its course might be influenced by marriage.

By "butterfly disease" I presume he means lupus erythematosus in which there is characteristically a red eruption of the center of the face. Since the rash spreads from the nose to cover both cheeks, it has the general appearance of a butterfly with its wings spread or, as the Latin name suggests, the head of a red wolf (lupus).

Like so many other "skin diseases," lupus is actually a skin manifestation of a much more profound and widespread internal disorder. It occurs mainly in two forms.

The one that's called discoid is a mild disorder that is effectually controlled by preventing exposure to the sun's rays or sun lamps. If the bride-to-be suffers the disease in this form, it need not interfere with their plans.

Unhappily, the so-called disseminated form, that also involves blood vessels throughout the body, is a grave affliction. It, too, may be controlled by avoidance of exposure to ultraviolet and by the most skillful use of hormone preparations and only under continuous medical supervision.

Neither marriage nor child-bearing has any special effect on the course of the disease. However, the participants to the planned marriage will have to decide for themselves about the advisability of a union that involves a partner afflicted with a life-threatening disease.

A surprising number of inquiries, with a less surprising variety of spellings, have been made about the curious disease that's named after the two French doctors who first wrote about it.

Like poliomyelitis, Guillain-Barre disease is probably caused by a virus that attacks the nervous system. However, the classical signs of infection, such as fever, are conspicuous by their absence or mildness. But evidences of involvement of the nervous system spread so rapidly that, within a few days, there may be paralysis of both arms, both legs and the muscles of the eyes, face and diaphragm.

The disease cannot be prevented by vaccines such as are used in polio. But it does respond, almost miraculously, to hormone treatments given in a hospital that has facilities for immediate use of a respirator where there is failure of the muscles that control breathing.

Dear Reader: Dr. Hyman appreciates your comments and questions but regrets that the heavy volume of his mail doesn't permit him to answer each individual letter or post card. However, he will comment in columns like the above upon matters of general or unusual interest.

"Why Don't We Do This More Often?"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The United States will need 16 million new housing units in the next 10 years to shelter new families formed by America's growing population.

"This country is the best-housed nation in the world today," says the new young, president of National Association of Home Builders, Martin L. Bartling Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn. But he adds quickly, "if we're not careful, pretty soon we won't be."

This is not the housing industry's opening pitch for a big, new government subsidy. The NAHB head points out, however, that in the past 10 years, housing has been a political football.

When times are bad, Congress kicks in a lot of money to bolster housing. When times are good, housing — second only to agriculture as the nation's biggest industry—gets the "let private enterprise do it" treatment.

THIS YEAR, SAYS BARTLING, a Republican, the Presidents' message to Congress show no awareness of the need for new housing programs. The administration just asks for extension of old programs, with slight change.

NAHB now has a four-point program of its own, adopted last month in an effort to do something to change this. It includes making a more stable supply of mortgage money available, obtaining better land use, reforming building codes and learning some new ways to build better houses at lower cost.

They want a new U. S. central mortgage bank and a secretary of housing put in the Cabinet, but they haven't a chance to get either one this year.

THE HIGH COST OF LAND is their basic problem. It's going to get worse. As population rises, demand for housing sites will go up and land prices will go along.

NAHB is putting $9,500 into a research program with Urban Land Institute to see if better land usage patterns cannot be established, thus reducing costs.

Fifteen building code reform groups will meet in Washington in March to promote standard national codes. There are now thousands of local codes. The worst example: the 900 codes in the Chicago metropolian area.

Building supply and household appliance manufacturers simply won't produce many new products they have developed because obsolete, restrictive and conflicting codes won't permit their use. Revision and simplification might reduce building costs 10 per cent.

THIS ALL - IMPORTANT MATTER of housing cost-cutting gets at the technology and research program which NAHB has been fostering. A new housing laboratory was opened in January and it now has four research homes in Kensington, Md., Knoxville, Tenn., South Bend, Ind., and East Lansing, Mich. Those represent a two-million-dollar investment by manufacturers wanting to test out new materials and construction methods.

The problem today, says Bartling, is that high building costs diminish the market for housing. Something new has to be discovered to provide housing for families with incomes of around $5,000 a year.

Even a modest $12,600 house and lot cannot be aquired today by a family with an income less than $6,000 to $7,500 a year. Such a house, with $400 down and a $12,200, 30-year mortgage, requires payments of $89.50 a month. Something lower than that is needed.

"IF THIS LOW - INCOME HOUSING MARKET is neglected," says the NAHB president, "there's going to be a vacuum in the next 10 years. Politicians may try to subsidize it, but that isn't the answer."

Public housing with a government subsidy isn't considered the answer, either, although NAHB now has a $5,000, six-month study looking into that, and may be forced to admit that it has its place.

Conflict of Interest Issue Linked to Dishonest Mind

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29—Can honestly be ligislated? This is the challenging question that comes to the fore when a report such as has just been presented to Congress endeavors to deal with the problem of so-called 'conflict of interest."

A committee of eminent lawyers from the Association of the Bar of the City of New York has completed a two-year study which recommends certain changes in existing laws so as to prevent employes of the government from being improperly influenced in their public duties through gifts, through the retention of income from previous business connections, through stock ownership in such companies, or otherwise.

"We need a long-run national policy," says the report, "which neither scarifices governmental integrity for opportunism nor drowns pratical staffing needs in moralism. We need a careful regulatory scheme that effectively restrains official conflicts of interest without generating pernicious side effects on recruitment. The basic conclusion of the committee is that such a scheme can be worked out."

Doesn't Reach Root

With all due respect to the fine men who prepared this report, the observation can be made that it doesn't go to the root of the problem. Honesty cannot be legislated any more than efficiency can be defined in a statue. Even if all the proposals of the bar association committee were adopted, this would not reach the real difficulty — the dishonest mind.

A man who owns stock in a company, from which he resigned or retired in order to accept a government post, can be compelled by law to sell his stock or to put it in trust to others. But does this mean he will be strong enough to forget his friendships of past years and turn a cold shoulder to his former associates, just because he has given up his stock? Is the remedy to be found in banning from public office anybody who has ever occupied a prominent place in business? This would deprive the government of some of the best brains in the country.

Cites Congressmen Ties

Also, what shall be said about those members of Congress who retain a connection with their former law firms, even though they are careful not to accept any income from cases involving the government? Is the continuance of their names on the law firm's stationery an inducement to prospective clients? Are the former associates of these members of Congress to be deprived of a chance to do any government business or to contact their duly-elected representative in Congress just because he used to work with them? What about the practice of many members of Congress who accept fees for speeches before labor-union or trade-association conventions?

Is a gift at Christmas or at any other time a sort of bribe? Must the recipient, if he is in public office, assume that the purpose of the gift is to influence him improperly? If so, then what about gifts made to individuals before they entered the government service? Are the donors forever to be preempted from contacting on business matters their friends of former year?

There was, for instance, the case of Sherman Adams. No proof ever was adduced that the gifts he received from a personal friend of long standing influenced him to do anything that he couldn't have done with propriety for any other constituent or for any other citizen with similar cases pending before government agencies. Yet Mr. Adams was crucified in the court of public opinion and his career irreparably damaged by something that is called "guilt by association" when the same sort of suspicion happens to fall upon a Communist sympathizer.

The problem is not new. It is one that is encountered every day by public servants in government from the highest Federal office down to the smallest post in county or city government. It comes up constantly on the bench. A conscientious judge who dons his robes and listens to the arguments of both sides in a courtroom deliberately puts out of his mind any background of friendship or acquaintance with the litigants. If he doesn't and commits this or that improper act, he can be impeached. An administrative official can always be removed for dishonesty or inefficiency.

To try to write laws prohibiting government officials from accepting gifts is the wrong approach. Every department head already has the right to issue rules and regulations that draw attention to the risks inherent in the acceptance of gifts or favors from persons who do business with the government. If such rules are violated, the employee can be dismissed, and, if the government has been defrauded, he can be prosecuted. There is no need for a complex set of laws when, after all is said and done, the remedy requires only a simple injunction demanding honesty and integrity from every person who serves the government.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

A Curtis magazine called Holiday for February published a feature story of an Englishman named Kenneth Tynan in praise of Fidel Castro with this affectionate tribute:

"I wish Castro well, harrassed as he is by dispossessed American business men, wealthy Cuban exiles and thousands of local bureucrats who have been swept out of their jobs by the new regime."

A few pargraphs earlier, a magazine lavishly supported by the American luxury trade had spoken of the routine slaughter of Cuban citizens by firing squads in these terms: "A Havana journalist approached me one night and asked whether I would like to go to an execution. He was clearly hurt when I declined.

"'I often nip over to the fortress', he said. 'They knock them off around one o'clock in the morning. Trouble is, they let them make speeches before they shoot them and lots of them go on about how they'll ge in heaven in a couple of minutes and how the boys who shot them will have to live the rest of their lives knowing they're going to hell. That puts the kids off their aim and they get the guy in the kneecap or the hip.

"'And I have to finish them off,' said a tanned man with dead eyes, toothless in his upper jaw and wearing a sports shirt that disclosed tatoo marks and two holy medals hanging from his neck. This was Captain Herman Marks, the American soldier of fortune who commanded the execution squad."

Marks was exposed in these dispatches last year as an inveterate American criminal with a multiple record achieved before he became the licensed professional murderer for the enemy of the United States to whom the Curtis Publishing Co. extended cordial wishes amid a lavish array of color press advertising.

Although I am widely acquainted in this trade I had never heard of Mr. Tynan before this exploit in which, incidentally, he reported that he expressed Ernest Hemingway's greetings to Castro.

"I told Castro I brought with me the good wishes of Senor Hemingway. This seemed to please him.

"But why does not Senor Hemingway write and speak more often about our revolution?" Castro asked.

Castro took the words out of my mouth, for Senor Hemingway has lived among the Cubans for many years and must have friends, possibly thousands of acquaintances, on both sides of the war. But up to this hour I have never read any expression of his sympathies except this hearsay commitment by an Englishman.

It seemed to me that the least that Senor Hemingway could do would have been to call on Castro in person.

Hemingway is an institution now. He has inspired an imitative school of the most awkward bores, notably in the New Yorker, since Mencken's satellites were traipsing the city rooms and speakeasies in the '20's with the American mercury folded in their hip pockets. His juvenile quarrel with Max Eastman over a fancied implication that he was not absolutely masculine was a ridiculous spat in the career of a bruiser, of whom even Gene Tunney said "only Dempsey ever hit me harder."

Bnt, though he lives in Cuba, convenient to advantages in the income tax which accrue to absentee Americans, apparently Senor Hemingway had not even gotten around to the routine curtesy of expressing his sympathy with massacres of good Cuban patriots who might have included some of his friends.

Tynan said Hemingway made this curious remark about honor: "People who have it never talk about it."

It has been said also that people who are brave never talk about that either, but Hemingway talks about bravery incessantly.

Soon after Holiday published Tynan's piece Tynan presented a TV show in London with a roster of Americans who dynamited the United States for half an hour. They included Alger Hiss, Norman Thomas and other nonentities and antiquities.

The next day, in Washington, Senator Styles Bridges said for the Congressional Record, "The beatnik philosophy stemming from a cancerous soul sickness apparently is not confined only to those who call themselves beatniks."

Tea Honoring Juliette Lowe Held by Scouts

The annual Juliette Lowe tea was held by New Paltz Girl Scouts in the Fireside Room of New Paltz Reformed Church Educational Building recently.

Mrs. Eric Farquaharson of Saugerties, representing the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts spoke on the Juliette Lowe World Friendship Fund. Delegates from all the local troops attended bringing their contributions to the fund.

At the tea, each troop representative taught a game representing a different country, in which all the girls participated. Each delegate will teach the games to members of their own troops.

Punch was prepared by the Intermediate Scouts of Mrs. Emil Rode's Troop 34, and Mrs. Thomas Franklin's troop made cup cakes and cookies and served the refreshments.

Scout leaders who attended the tea were Jeanne Brake, Susan Humphrey, Denise Franklin, Linda Demers, Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Rode, Barbara Madtes, Leslie Coulton, Mrs. John Hoffman, Victoria Burkhardt, Karen Van Aiken, Mrs. Paul Steiner, Mrs. Kenneth DePuy, Ann Archard, Mrs. Merrill Archard, Bernadette Schiller, Mrs. Santo Martino, Joanne McElhenney, Mrs. Vanderlyn Pine, Maribeth Coutant, Mrs. Morgan Coutant, Betty Osterhoudt, Mrs. William Cuthbert and Mrs. Robert Clarkson.

Council members attending were Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. Anthony Caiazza who was in charge of the refreshments, and Mrs. John McAusland.

The purpose of the World Friendship Fund is to promote friendship between Girl Guides and Girl Scouts from around the world, through living and working together.

Mike Moriello Park Benefit Slated March 3

Plans have been formulated for the Mike Moriello Park benefit Thursday, March 3 at New Paltz Central School Gymnasium at 7:30 p. m.

Highlight of the evening will be a basketball game between the faculty of the college here and the faculty of the Central School

To play from the college will be Tom Blair, Fred Bunt, Mel Archard, Joe Orze, Floyd Parker, John Solowsky, Al Wooley and Charles Wolbers. Blair is well known in the area for his basketball skills. Orze is known for his football playing at Syracuse University. Wolbers, coach of the college varsity here, played for Pittsburgh University.

Bill Russell's team from the Central School will be led by Don Crawford, a graduate of Springfield College. Also Joe Helhoski from Oswego, and Bill Russell from Cortland. Other members are Bob Docette, Art Bennett, Doc. Bill Pugliese, Bob Breary, Al Douglas and Cliff Van Valkenburgh.

Tickets for this event are available from any member of the park board and will also be available at the door the night of the event.

Area Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Helmont Horn are the parents of a daughter, Heidi Marie, born February 20 at Kingston Hospital. Helmont is the engineering manager at Lake Monhonk.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Lorenzen have left for a vacation trip in Florida.

Members of Eendracht Club and foreign students will be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Wilson Sunday evening for supper, music and entertainment.

Mrs. Gordon Pine with co-hostesses, Mrs. Charles Wolbers, Mrs. Carleton Van De Water, Miss Helena Olds and Mrs. Frank Knivel, entertained the Garden Club Thursday. Mrs. George Bishop, in keeping with the theme of this year's program "Enjoying Our Gardens" spoke on the subject "Annuals for Color."

The play which has been chosen for the annual spring production by the Senior High Youth Fellowship of the Reformed Church will be "A Man Called Peter."

A series of mid-week services will be held in the Fireside Room of the Reformed Church Education Building each Wednesday evening during the Lenten season, at 7:30 p. m. A brief period of devotions will be followed by a half-hour lecture by the Rev. Gerret Wullschleger on "The Seven Churches of Asia," from the Book of Revelation. All are welcome to attend.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Paul Terpening phoned that an Ulster County Gazette, of Jan. 4, 1800 was found in an old book dated 1844 at the Masonic Temple. I hope it is an original, as Kingston should have one on display here, but no doubt it may be another copy of which there are thousands.

The other day had an interesting phone conversation with a lady who owns some 63 acres of Hussey Hill from the bottom to the top. She told me about an old stone house that goes with her property, and invited me to come and see it and her land on Hussey Hill. We discussed the name, Hussey Hill, and she understood the name came from the word, geese. It seems there are a number of ponds all around there, and in olden times they raised geese, so the name, Hussey Hill was given to that mysterious mountain or hill. Perhaps other readers can add to the knowledge of Hussey Hill.

Often I am asked, if I know the builder of various buildings or homes and when they were built. Too bad that it is not mentioned on deeds. In the Kingston Argus of Wednesday, Oct. 9, 1889 are some building notes: "Peter Measter, builder, was putting up a store for John U. Merritt and one for John D. Sleight on North Front and Fair Streets, also a dwelling on Clinton Avenue for James Kelley, and one on Prospect Street for Joseph A. Berger. He has dwellings on Wall Street of Wade Van Keuren and Mrs. Brodhead about finished. Dederick and Longyear had the contract to build S. L. Drake's new dwelling on Albany Avenue, of which the foundation was completed."

Another item from the same paper, may be interesting to those carrying the name of Bogart. It reads as follows: "John Bogart, the candidate for state engineer and surveyor, was born in Albany, of which city his family were among the earliest settlers, having come there from Holland in 1642. He attended the Albany Academy and graduated from Rutgers College. Previous to the war, he gained honorable distinction upon various engineering works, among them the enlargement of the Erie canal, the short line of the New York Central railroad between Syracuse and Rochester, and the original construction of the New York Central Park."

Item further states: "For past 10 years he has been secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He was deputy state engineer and surveyor of the State of New York, until his resignation in July 1877. He was elected state engineer over O. H. P. Cornell, by a plurailty of 13,061."

From the same paper: "The Delaware and Hudson Canal Co. is unloading a cargo of Georgia pine from Savannah on their dock in the creek. . . . The last trips of the Hudson River Day Line will be made, from New York, Monday, October 14, from Albany, Tuesday, Oct. 15. . . . It is the intention of the Hudson River Cement Co. to run both mills, the one at East Kingston and the one at Wilber, next season. . . . W. J. Turck, on Sept. 28, finished unloading a vessel of a cargo of 250,000 feet of Florida pine. This week he is unloading another cargo of 350,000 feet from Fernandina."

You Mean I Could Save $1,000?

We do. And we say so because so many of our every-day depositors save that much and more.

How do I go about it? Start with a small sum, say $5. Then deposit regularly.

How long will it take? $5 a week will do it in less than four years; $10 a week in less than two, and so on — with compound interest from us shortening the time still further.

Endurance Test To Begin Today On Civil Rights

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate battle over civil rights legislation turns into an endurance contest today with the start of around-the-clock sessions.

Leaders called on senators to meet at noon for the start of the third week of the bitter election-year struggle, and planned to keep going nonstop until something or somebody gives way.

In this manner they hoped to break the resistance of Southern foes and force the legislation to a vote.

The outnumbered Dixie forces were ready to strike back with every parliamentary resource at their command. Their leader, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), said Sunday they are determined to talk the bill to death.

The Southerners have no detailed campaign plan, Russell said in a television interview, but will "play it by ear from day to day."

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa) conceded in a radio interview the Southerners have a chance of killing the bill or watering it down. The outcome depends, he said, on how "the uncommitted group in the Senate will act." He said he referred to some Western and border state senators.

Much of the Senate's other business was inevitably grinding to a halt; cots were being set up in the Capitol for use by senators through the long, weary nights ahead; clerks, doorkeepers and other employes were going on overtime shifts.

Not since July 1954, in a fight over public vs. private development of atomic power, has the Senate been up against a comparable situation. In that battle, extending over 11 days, the Senate had four all-night sessions.

The longest single nonstop Senate session shown in records of the Senate press gallery ran for 54 hours and 10 minutes. That was in February 1915, during a fight over a bill for the purchase of German ships interned in American harbors.

How long the Senate session starting today will last no one knows, but behind-the-scenes maneuvering is going on and will continue in an effort to find a way out of the impasse.

U. S. Will Talk But Not Under Castro's Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States told Cuba today it is willing to talk over differences between the two nations but not under conditions proposed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

In a formal note again expressing friendship for the Cuban people, the United States invited Castro's regime to discuss through diplomatic channels, the time, place of such talks and the subject to be discussed.

The State Department note, delivered to the Cuban Foreign Office at Havana today, specifically rejected Cuba's insistence that the United States promise no one-sided action against Cuba pending conclusion of the talks.

As set forth in President Eisenhower's statement of Jan. 26, the note said, "the government of the United States must remain free in the exercise of its own sovereignty to take whatever steps it deems necessary, fully consistent with its international obligations in the defense of the legitimate rights and interests of its people.

"The government of the United States believes that these rights and interests have been adversely affected by the unilateral acts of the Cuban government."

Presidential Hopefuls Hit Administration Policies

Scattered over the country today, Democratic presidential hopefuls aimed their barbs at a wide variety of Eisenhower administration policies. Money, farm, and defense policies were among the targets.

Former President Harry S. Truman added another. "Beware of political budget cutters," he told a Conference for Israel Bonds in Miami Beach, Fla., Sunday night.

In the case of farm policy, however, there was an indication Democrats might be attacking something unsupported by the Republicans if Vice President Richard M. Nixon, as expected, became the GOP candidate for president.

In a radio interview from Washington Sunday, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said he was certain Nixon would come out with a new program, "which will be entirely independent of past programs."

Mundt disagreed with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's view that the Eisenhower farm program would be supported by Nixon or any other Republican candidate.

A Democratic attack on Benson and the Eisenhower farm program was made Sunday by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), an announced candidate touring northern Illinois.

He told a luncheon group in Elgin that the present administration "will bequeath some 10 billion dollars of surplus farm commodities to haunt the farmers and the taxpayers until a Democratic administration can bring order out of the present chaos."

Financial policy was stressed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) who winds up a tour of northwestern Wisconsin tonight. He and Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) are entered in the state's presidential primary April 5.

At a rally in Wisconsin Rapids Sunday night, Humphrey said that the administration's "tight money policies" had cost the small home owner and farmer millions in increased interest payments in recent years.

The administration's defense policy was criticized by Kennedy, in a speech prepared for the Senate today.

If Eisenhower's program is allowed to stand, Kennedy said, the United States faces a missile gap "on which we are gambling with our survivial."

Kennedy urged Congress to vote more money for missiles, airalerts, and ground forces before the President goes to the East-West summit conference.

Radioactive Material Settles in Lowlands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radioactive material scattered by atomic explosions tends to accumulate in the soils of lowlands, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The department reported, however, that the present levels of radioactivity from fallout from atomic explosions are still several hundredfold below the levels of radioactivity naturally occurring in soils.

Ike Ends 3-Day Argentina Visit

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP)—President Eisenhower ended a triumphant three-day visit to Argentina today with a call for "unswerving partnership" between the United States and the Latin American republics.

The President's Super Constellation, the Columbine III, took off from this scenic mountain resort at 8:41 a.m. EST for Santiago, Chile, third stop on the Eisenhower Latin American tour.

After a night of rest, Eisenhower appeared to be in good health as he exchanged farewells with Argentine President Arturo Frondizi at the airport.

The two Presidents flew from the Llao Llao, their hotel in the foothills of the towering Andes, to the airport in the same helicopter.

Eisenhower greeted the small crowd of tourists with his customary grin and waved at them.

Hercules Safety

annually because of on-the-job accidents.

Geared to the period of rapid technological and social change upon which experts agree the country is launched, delegates to the conference will examine problems arising out of new and intensified safety and health hazards throughout the U. S. economy. This effort is summarized in the conference theme: "The Challenge of Safety in a Changing World."

Under the general chairmanship of Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, the Washington meeting will come to grips with the knotty problem of how to minimize the country's losses in manpower, in technical skill, human suffering, and financial waste that job accidents are causing.

Program emphasis is upon broad functional topics pointed toward new hazards during the decade of the 1960's, rather than the industry-by-industry approach used in many safety conferences.

Friendly Chile

But the cost of living is still very high, and wages are low, forcing many to work at two jobs.

Eisenhower came to this long, narrow country that hugs the lower west coast of South America after pledging with Argentine President Arturo Frondizi to work for better living standards in the Americas.

The U.S. and Argentine Presidents also agreed in a "Declaration of Bariloche" that their governments would continue to work for non-intervention from abroad in the internal affairs of nations and mutual respect among nations.

Declaration Signed

The declaration was signed Sunday night as Eisenhower's visit drew to a close at the resort in the foothills of the Andres Mountains.

The declaration was in general terms and did not deal specifically with Frondizi's call at a news conference earlier Sunday for an increase in U.S. financial and technical aid to Latin American countries.

Frondizi, asked about the prospects of Moscow's campaign to increase the Soviet sphere of influence in the hemisphere, replied that "depends on Latin America's own efforts and the help it receives for its development."

"The United States, within its possibilities, should increase its financial and technical help," he said in answer to a question. But he added that "only people with colonial attitudes can expect that foreign help will solve their problems."

Ends First Half

Winding up the first half of his four-nation goodwill mission, Eisenhower is showing the physical grind of the 15,560-mile tour. But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty says the President is "feeling fine."

His weekend stay at Bariloche was largely one of rest, relaxation, and private talks with Frondizi. But after fishing for 2½ hours Sunday afternoon for salmon and trout—and catching nothing worth keeping—the President seemed exhausted on his return to his hotel.

Hagerty waved aside the anxious questions of some reporters, saying, "Have you ever tried wading in a trout stream for 2½ hours?"

The heat on this tour has been intense and the humidity energy-sapping. Reporters who accompanied Eisenhower on his December tour of 11 nations in Europe, Asia and Africa are considerably more exhausted than they were on the earlier trip, and most of them are 20 to 40 years younger than the 69-year-old President.

Helen Keller, who succeeded despite loss of sight, hearing and, speech, was born in Tuscumbia, Ala., in 1890.

Dutchess Voters Approve Issues For Fire Trucks

Taxpayers in two Dutchess County Fire districts have approved bond issues to purchase new apparatus for the Arlington and Roosevelt Fire companies at a total cost not to exceed $70,000.

Arlington district voters by a vote of 112 to eight approved five-year notes financing the purchase of two fire trucks at a cost not to exceed $45,000. The voters authorized the purchase of a 1,000-gallon tank truck at a cost of $13,000 and a 75-foot aerial hook and ladder truck at a cost of about $32,000.

The ladder truck will be stationed at the Arlington Central firehouse, and the truck assigned there at present will be moved to Croft Corners firehouse in the southern end of the district. A 1931 Ahrens Fox ladder truck which has been in use at Croft Corners will be sold.

Roosevelt District voters have approved two bond issues, one to finance a new pumper apparatus purchase and the other for asphalt paving of areas around the three fire houses in the district at a total cost of $25,000.

The bond issue for the new Hyde Park apparatus was carried by a vote of 64 to 13, and the vote in favor of the asphalt paving was 67 to 11.

The Board of Fire Commissioners was authorized to purchase a 750-gallon two-stage pumper apparatus with 1,000-gallon tank at a cost of approximately $18,000. Equipment for the three firehouses including hose was estimated to cost $3,000.

Bigger Surplus

Michael H. Prendergast declared Saturday at Cohoes the people were in revolt against Rockefeller fiscal policies. Prendergast said it was time the governor "faced up to some alternatives"—off-track betting and a state lottery. The Democratic leader said these revenue sources would enable the state to cut taxes and expand services.

3. State Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy said in a statement Saturday that a Rockefeller administration plan to make state tax laws conform to the federal system would be of chief benefit to taxpayers in the $5,000 to $15,000-a-year class, including many small businessmen and farmers. Murphy replied to Democratic charges the move would benefit only "a favored few" big businessmen. The Republican commissioner noted that all Democratic legislators except one had approved the constitutional amendment, later ratified by voters, that allows the change. Bills to carry it out is pending in legislative committees.

4. An Upstate educator said said Rockefeller's school-aid plan was headed in the wrong direction. The governor has proposed that local school districts raise 70 million dollars through a telephone use tax to add to the 25 million in new state aid. Dean Harlan Cleveland of the Maxwell School of Citizenship, Syracuse University, protested any lessening of the state share of education, now 40 per cent of the total. He spoke at a Democratic party gathering here.

Must Stand Trial

5. The Court on the Judiciary ordered Kings County Judges Samuel S. Leibowitz and Nathan R. Sobel, both of Brooklyn, to stand trial before it on charges of abuse of judicial office. The charges stemmed from a public flare-up between the two over Leibowitz' handling of a murder case.

6. Rockefeller and legislative leaders prepared pleas to the New York State congressional delegation to help win the telephone-use tax — on which Rockefeller is counting for his school plan—from the federal government. The tax is scheduled to expire June 30 but President Eisenhower has asked Congress to renew it. Rockefeller, Mahoney and Carlino will meet with the state delegation Wednesday in Washington.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Electronics and other speculative stocks were in demand as the stock market moved irregularly early this afternoon. Trading was routine.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were the rule among pivotal issues. The "science" stocks and other wide movers had gains going to 2 or 3.

The market was mixed at the start, managed a moderate gain in the morning and then lost its edge as prices turned uneven.

Electronics benefited from additional recommendations by advisory services. The general business news background, however, was mixed.

Steels, coppers, oils and rails were mostly lower. Tobaccos, drugs and rubbers advanced.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .51 to 631.49. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 to 218.50 with the industrials unchanged, the rails off .50 and the utilities up .10.

Corporate bonds showed a tendency toward the downside.

Four in Detroit Family Killed in Auto Mishap

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Four members of a family of nine, homeward-bound from a Sunday visit with grandparents, were killed Sunday night in their station wagon on an icy road near Detroit.

The station wagon skidded into a dump truck and then was struck by another car.

Killed were Allen C. Kaiser, 38, of suburban Royal Oak; his wife, Mary, 34; their son, Mark, 1; and daughter, Maria, 3.

Injured were, Kathleen, 9; Lynn, 13; Allen jr., 11; John, 10; and Carl, 7. They were reported in fair condition today at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Defense Rests In Murder Trial Of van Rie Today

BOSTON (AP) — The defense rested today in the murder trial of Willem van Rie, 31, Dutch radio operator accused of beating a pretty, 23-year-old divorcee and tossing her to her death in Boston Harbor Sept. 18.

The action came suddenly as the 15th trial day got under way in Suffolk Superior Court before Judge Frank J. Murray and an all-male jury.

Vivacious Lynn Kauffman died by drowning on the last leg of a 44-day voyage from Singapore. The daughter of a Chicago industrialist, she was a passenger on the Dutch freighter Utrecht. Van Rie was radio operator on the vessel.

The state charges they engaged in a shipboard romance that ended in a violent quarrel in her cabin as the Utrecht steamed out of Boston for New York.

Lynn's bruised body, clad only in Bermuda shorts and slippers, was found the next day on a harbor island.

The state contends the injuries to face, head and brain were caused by a beating. The defense offered medical testimony to show the injuries could have been suffered in a 40-foot fall from the deck of the freighter.

The Mayflower which arrived in Plymouth, Mass., on Dec. 21, 1620, was three-masted. It had a speed of about 2½ miles per hour.

Separate Treaty

not rate participation in the Paris summit conference, Khrushchev replied: "Not only China but India, Indonesia, Japan and other nations will be brought in eventually."

Signed Agreements

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Indonesian President Sukarno signed economic and cultural agreements Sunday which will give these agricultural islands a big boost toward industrialization.

In turn, Sukarno promised in a joint communique to continue his "policy of non-alignment with existing military alliances." The only alliance in the area is the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO); which Indonesia, despite its growing friendliness toward the West, has shown no inclination to join.

The economic pact granted Indonesia a seven-year credit at 2½ per cent interest to be paid back over 12 years in British pounds or commodities. The loan will enable Indonesia to build a steel plant and develop her agricultural, textile, chemical and nonferrous metal industries. It also provides for construction of one or two nuclear reactors under a 1956 Soviet aid offer.

Khrushchev also announced the Soviet Union will build a 200-bed hospital and clinic as a gift.

By extending this help, Khrushchev hopes to keep Indonesia out of the Western camp. But Foreign Minister Subandrio said Indonesia still needs 500 million dollars to set up a program of industrialization.

Influenced by Sympathy

Indonesia's growing friendliness to the West has been influenced by increasing American sympathy in her problems. U.S. aid to Indonesia since World War II has totaled 617 million dollars. Soviet credits to Indonesia over the last four years total 368 million dollars, but much of an earlier Soviet loan has not been used.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hand of 7 Cherry Lane, Windemere Heights, announce the birth of their second child, Michael James, Saturday, Feb. 27, at the Kingston Hospital. Their other child is three-year-old Barbara Jo.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Saunders of 15 Cherry Lane are receiving congratulations on the birth of their third child and first daughter, Laura Jean, Feb. 20 at the Kingston Hospital. Their two sons are Richard and Michael. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Sajewski of Windsor, Canada, and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. August Rahlf of Sutton, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard McGann of 13 Edgewood Drive, Windemere, are being extended best wishes on the birth of their first son, Michael Francis, Feb. 19, at the Benedictine Hospital. They also have three daughters, Theresa, Laural and Eileen. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holden of Gill, Mass. and paternal grandparents are Mrs. Betty Wight of Palm Springs, Fla., and Thomas McGann of Linden, N. J.

New Residents

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kulikowski and two children, formerly of Rosendale, have moved into their new home at 23 Edith Avenue, Dutch Settlement, Simmons Park. Mr. Kulikowski is an employe of the International Business Machines Corporation.

Feted on Birthday

A birthday luncheon was held on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Garzione, 55 Appletree Drive, for their son, William Kevin, who was six years old that day. Guests included Mark and Rena Parenti, Betsy, Anne, Kathleen and Edward Carey, Jon Bouche, Michael McClain, Richard and Vickie Cyr, Linda DiDimimoco, Kristen Countryman, and Bruce and Robin Milikofsky. Also, William's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Crawley of Newburgh, and his maternal uncle and cousin, George De Weever and Keith DeWeever of Walden. Unble to attend were Debbie Simmons and Joseph DiDimimoco.

Area Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bolinder and daughters Marianne and Nancy of Garden Circle, recently visited with relatives in Brockton and Malden, Mass. While there they also attended the Ice Follies in Boston.

Mrs. Werner Reissler of 4 Evergreen Court, Windemere, is a patient in the Benedictine Hospital, where she is recuperating from major surgery.

Think It Through

E. F. HUTTON

THE BEARDED BEATNIK BROTHERS

The nightmare of Cuban-American relations should wake the One Worlders and Foreign Aiders from their fond dream of "peace insurance" bought with cash.

No nation ever did more for another country—and for as long a time—as the United States has done for Cuba. She owes her very existence and independence to us.

E. F. Hutton

After the Spanish-American War, the United States, under the Platt Amendment, obligated herself to come to Cuba's defense, if her independence was threatened. Our Government has loaned Cuba millions of $'s to stabilize her currency and prosperity. American firms have invested a billion $'s to build up her plantations and mines.

Under the Costigan Act of 1935, our Government has paid more than the world price for Cuba's sugar. This is a direct subsidy from every American dining room. As sugar production is one-quarter of her national income, and 78% of her exports, Cuba would have lived a beggar's life without our constant help.

But, as the Spanish proverb says, "Eaten bread is soon forgotten."

Despite fifty years of "foreign aid," two bearded beatnik brothers have now set up a dictatorship as absolute as Batista's. They propose to confiscate American investments and threaten to bring Communism to our front door,—all with the apparent support of a majority of the Cuban people.

Foreign aid as "peace insurance" is more of a slogan than a fact.

Nehru, Chou to Meet

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian Prime Minister Nehru and Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai today agreed to an April meeting in New Delhi to discuss their border dispute.

Both leaders made clear they regarded the talks as exploratory with the prospect of setting in motion negotiations for settling the frontier feud which has brought bloodshed.

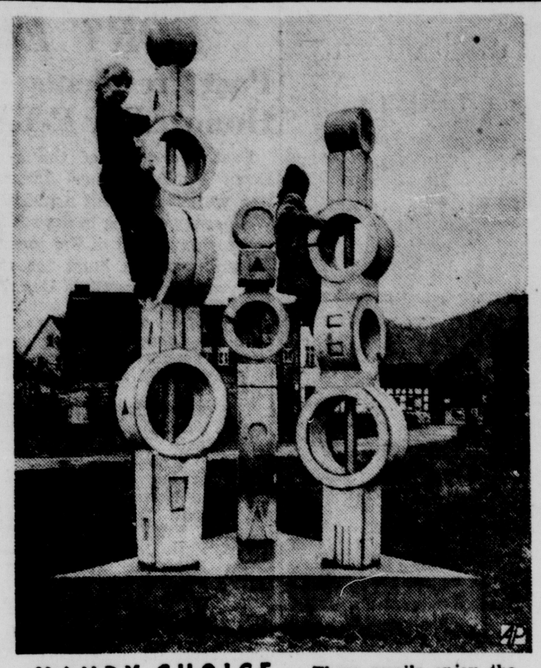

Nehru's announcement that he was agreeable to meeting Chou "sometime in April" drew applause in Parliament.

Abbas Against Plan

TUNIS (AP) — Ferhat Abbas, premier of the Algerian rebel government-in-exile, today rejected any peace plan which would "balkanize" Algeria into separate ethnic or religious states.

"Such solutions are not workable," Abbas said in a statement. "The Algerian people reject them."

The statement was prompted by indications from Paris that French President Charles de Gaulle was considering some kind of ethnic or religious division of Algeria as a solution to the five-year rebellion there. France would retain control of areas largely settled by the French.

Station Wagon, Reported Stolen, Involved in Crash

A station wagon reported stolen early Sunday night was involved in a two-car mishap at Albany and Tremper Avenues and its driver fled the scene, police said.

The station wagon reported stolen from in front of 141 East Strand was owned by Frank J. Mayone, 43, of 164 Murray Street. It, with its unknown driver, police said, struck the car of Robert LeRoy Lyons, 26, of 211 O'Neil Street, in the rear at the above intersection at about 6:24 p. m.

Patricia Lyons, 20, an expectant mother, the report said, was apparently uninjured, but was to be examined by a doctor.

A report at 8:50 p. m., said the driver of the stolen station wagon was believed to be somewhere in the area, but a search was without result. Officers Joseph Kivlan and Leon Fitzgerald, at the scene to investigate, were joined in the search by Sgt. Thomas Tomshaw and Officer Robert Houghtaling.

Thinks Lefkowitz Is Considering '61 Drive for Mayor

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York County (Manhattan) Republican chairman says Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz is seriously considering running for mayor in 1961.

Bernard Newman said Sunday that Lefkowitz, a Republican, "certainly is in the forefront of the potential candidates, and I know that he is giving this serious consideration."

Besides Lefkowitz, Newman listed other GOP mayoral candidate possibilities Rep. John V. Lindsay, Manhattan; MacNeil Mitchell, Secretary of State Carolina Simon and a former presiding justice of the Appellate Division, David B. Peck.

Grandmother Identified

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland (AP)—The body of a 63-year-old Italian grandmother who was making her first flight to see her grandchildren in the United States was identified today as one of 30 victims of last Friday's Alitalia air crash.

She was Mrs. Angela Farina, of the village of Fiosolone Campasso. She was on her way to visit her daughter, Mrs. Rosetta di Biase, at Buffalo, N. Y., when the DC7C crashed on takeoff from here.

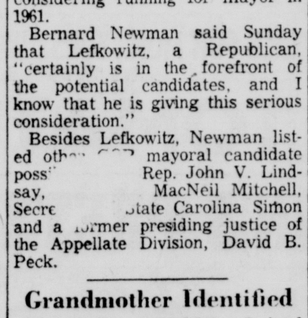

Her husband and son Felice flew from Rome to identify the body.

"I don't believe my mother would ever have ventured so far and on her first airplane if it were not for her great longing to see her grandchildren," Felice said.

Havell Funeral

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Funeral services will be held Wednesday for George F. Havell, manager of the Veteran's Administration Syracuse Regional Office, who died Saturday night of a heart attack.

Havell, 59, who lived in suburban Fayetteville, had managed the office since 1946. The region covers an 18-county area of central and northern New York.

You are in love when the only clouds in your life are the ones you're walking on.

Latter-Day Saints Approve of Unit For Three States

NEW YORK (AP)—About 1,200 members of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church packed Roosevelt Auditorium to overflowing Sunday to unanimously approve establishment of the church's 293rd stake.

The new unit, similar to a diocese in other denominations, is comprised of parts of New York, State and New Jersey and a small portion of southeastern Pennsylvania. It will be called the New Jersey Stake.

The new arrangement leaves about 2,500 registered church members in the New York area and a section of Connecticut under jurisdiction of the New York Stake. This unit formerly included the area covered by the new stake.

About 2,400 church members in all of New Jersey and a portion of Pennsylvania across the Delaware River from Trenton, N. J., were assigned to the New Jersey Stake.

Harold B. Lee, of Salt Lake City, Utah, a member of the church's ruling body of 12, said the new unit was formed because of increased church membership and "the complexity of administration in this area of such concentrated population."

29 Cars of Freight Derailed in Canada

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (AP)—Twenty-nine cars of a Canadian Pacific freight were derailed today at nearby Pointe du Lac, some 75 miles east of Montreal.

No one was injured, but most of the cars were demolished as they roared off the tracks on a curve on the main line between Montreal and Quebec City.

The three diesel engines and 52 other cars stayed on the track.

Doctors After Graham

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — African witch doctors are picketing preliminary meetings of Billy Graham's crusade in Kisumu, where the American evangelist will appear Tuesday.

The Rev. Joseph Blinco, now in Kisumu 165 miles northwest of Nairobi, advised Graham that for the past three days native medicine men have been parading outside the meeting in their weird costumes, muttering incantations.

There have been no incidents in Kisumu, and Graham will fly there Tuesday, as scheduled.

Red China Makes Charge

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China today charged that a U.S. patrol plane violated Chinese air space by flying over Yunghsing and Tung islands, in the Hsisha islands of Kwangtung province. Peiping radio said the flight took place Sunday.

Kennedy Advises Defense Funds Before Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) called on Congress today to vote increased missile, air-alert and ground force spending before President Eisenhower goes to the summit conference.

A candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Kennedy said in a prepared Senate speech this "investment in peace" would cost less than Eisenhower's estimated $4,200,000,000 budget surplus.

Kennedy said he agrees with Eisenhower that, with its present mixture of forces, America's defenses are superior to the Soviet Union's at the present time.

But if the administration's defense program is allowed to stand, Kennedy said the United States faces a missile gap "on which we are gambling with our survival."

Such a situation, he said, not only creates doubt among U.S. allies but leaves the enemy in doubt —"and such doubts are tempting him."

"While those doubts persist, he will want to push, to probe and possibly to attack, Kennedy said. "He will not want to talk disarmament. He will not want to talk peace at the summit.

"I urge that this Congress, before the President departs for the summit, demonstrate conclusively that we are removing those doubts —and that we are prepared to pay the full costs necessary to insure the peace."

To Join Khrushchev

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Former Prime Minister U Nu will fly to Calcutta Tuesday to join Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Indian Prime Minister Nehru in talks about a high-level conference of Asian and African leaders, the usually well informed newspaper the Guardian reported today. The proposed conference would be similar to the 1955 Bandung conference, the paper said.

Choose Cottage Cheese

The forty-day Lenten period begins on the second of March this year. From then until Easter, April 17, members of the Christian world will observe a period of fast. Although religious practices vary among churches, for many this will mean eating meat but once a day on weekdays, except for 11 days which are entirely meatless. Homemakers faced with the need to create varied meatless menus may want to consider serving protein-rich cottage cheese. Convenience, economy, food value, and versatility label cottage cheese as an appropriate alternate for meat during this period, say Extension specialists.

Cottage cheese adapts to varied main dishes. The flavor and texture of cottage cheese enhance its use as a sandwich filling. Numerous combinations are possible, such as cottage cheese with: chopped hard-cooked eggs, minced anchovies, and mayonnaise; flaked crabmeat, mayonnaise, and prepared mustard; chopped canned sardines, hard-cooked eggs, and mayonnaise; peanut butter and orange juice; dried apricots or prunes; chopped walnuts and dates; horseradish and minced parsley, chopped chives and prepared mustard.

Cottage cheese teams well with eggs for nutritious main dishes. Add cottage cheese to scrambled eggs, to omelet, or combine it with Cheddar cheese in a souffle. Cottage cheese lends interest to pancake batter and may also be used to fill thin egg pancakes. As a filling add spice to cottage cheese with cinnamon-sugar.

Several varieties of cottage cheese are available. Read the label of the cottage cheese package to know what type of cheese you are buying. A description of the types most commonly sold in this vicinty follows.

Creamed cottage cheese, the most popular type sold and most universally available, is made from pasteurized skim milk to which a culture is added to produce coagulation and develop acidity and flavor. The curd size texture, and firmness can be controlled in the process of manufacture. Salt and cream are added to the finished cheese for flavor. Federal standards specify that creamed cottage cheese must contain at least 4 per cent butterfat and no more than 80 per cent moisture. Creamed cottage cheese is generally found in two curd sizes — large and small.

Large curd cottage cheese is sometimes called "country style" or "California style." The package label usually states that is large curd. Large curd cottage cheese mixes easily with other foods, especially in salads.

Small curd cottage cheese is sometimes called "old fashioned cottage cheese." The curds are small and firm but tender, and the cheese holds its shape well. It is especially good in salads or in cooked dishes where a fine curd is preferred.

When the package label makes no reference to curd size, chances are that it is the small curd, since the small curd cottage cheese originally was the predominant type in this market.

Cottage cheese or "pot style" cheese is usually made from skim milk, with fat or not fat added. It has more than 80 per cent moisture, according to Federal standards. Both types appear in this market so read the label for fat content.

Flavored cottage cheese, a relative newcomer to the market, is made from creamed cottage cheese with the addition of fruits or vegatables. Some combinations available are: chives, scallions, parsley, and spices, celery, carrots, green and red peppers, and Spanish onions; and pineapple. Flavored cottage cheese is a convenience item and generally costs slightly more than the unflavored.

Skim milk cottage cheese-no salt added is another type of cheese available for people on special diets. Read the label carefully to be sure of the ingredients in the cheese.

Farmer cheese, a higher fat content cottage cheese, generally contains about 8 per cent fat. It differs from creamed cheese in the way it is made, in that the curd is pressed into a flat package so that the cheese can be sliced easily.

Refrigerate cottage cheese to maintain its freshness. Cottage cheese is quite perishable and should be held under refrigeration to maintain its freshness and delicate flavor. Buy cheese from stores that display it in a refrigerated cabinet. At home store cottage cheese in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator where the temperature remains around 40 degrees F. Plan to use cottage cheese soon after you buy it, while it is still fresh, preferably within a week.

Match cottage cheese package size to family needs. Cottage cheese is usually sold retail in 8-, 12-, and 16-ounce packages, and a new 2-pound size. Since cottage cheese is perishable, choose the size that you will use within a week or less. The 8-ounce package will yield 1 cup, the 12-ounce, 1½ cups, the 16-ounce, 2 cups, and the 2-pound, 4 cups Count on 4½ cup-servings from a pound of cottage cheese.

Economize with cottage cheese in main dishes. A ½-cup serving of cottage cheese costs from 8 to 10 cents, according to prices at one supermarket January 12, 1960. The price of all styles of cottage cheese ranged from 32 to 39 cents a pound, but flavored cottage cheese ran somewhat higher, around 52 cents a pound. There was a greater difference in price among brands of cottage cheese than there was among styles or package sizes.

Nutrient-rich cottage cheese is low in calories. Cottage cheese is a rich source of high quality protein, calcium, and riboflavin. Since a 4-ounce (½ cup) serving of creamed cottage cheese supplies nearly a fourth of the portein recommended in the daily diet of a normally active man, cottage cheese alternates satisfactorily for meat during the Lenten period. This amount of cottage cheese provides 13 per cent of the calcium and 18 per cent of the riboflavin recommended daily.

Calorie-counters will appreciate the low number in a serving of cottage cheese. A half cup of creamed cottage cheese furnishes 120 calories while the same amount of cottage cheese made from skim milk with no fat added furnishes 100 calories.

Americans are eating more cottage cheese than ever before. Use of cottage cheese in our country has increased rapidly in recent years. Production and consumption have about doubled in the past decade and are setting new records almost every year. Consumption in 1959 was about 5.5 pounds per person. The amount used this year is expected to set another new record.

At the Market

Meat. Snow-clogged roads in the West and Midwest have slowed temporarily the movement of livestock from farm to market. Receipts have been comparatively small. This will end with a few days of clear weather. The fundemental meat supply situation remains generally unchanged with potential marketing of beef, pork, and lamb expected in good volume through the next several weeks. The placement of chicks for broiler production have been running about 5 per cent greater than a year ago, so expect larger marketings in late February, March, and April.

Fish. Fillets of cod, flounder, haddock, ocean perch, and fish sticks are in abundant supply. Scallops, shrimp, and whiting are also plentiful.

Fruit: Bananas and pineapple recently have been added to the list of fruits in good supply and low in price. They supplement such staples as Western pears, Eastern apples, hothouse rhubarb, cranberries, oranges, grapefruit, and lemons. Avocados continue plentiful. Imported honeydew melons from Chile are fairly reasonable.

Vegetables: There is still lots of variety in vegetables. Endive, escarole, lettuce, kale, collards, mustard greens, and spinach are quite plentiful. Cabbage, carrots, Florida celery, yellow onions, potatoes, peas, beets, broccoli and mushrooms.

The Parvuli Dei medal is given by the church for recognition of advancement in religious knowledge and spiritual formation. There are 12 requirements. (Freeman photo).

Fate of Chessman Hinges on Action Of Legislature

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Caryl Chessman's fate hinges on what the California Legislature does about capital punishment at a session starting today.

Just what attempts will be made to change the law hasn't been decided. Unofficial proposals to the legislators range from outright repeal of the seven separate provisions for capital punishment in the state's criminal code to a moratorium on the death penalty pending further study.

George T. Davis, chief attorney for the Los Angeles sex kidnaper, has suggested the Legislature submit the question of capital punishment to the electorate as a referendum on the November ballot.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown granted Chessman a 60-day reprieve Feb. 20 on the eve of the eighth execution date faced by Chessman who was condemned 11½ years ago. The governor said he did so to allow the Legislature again to consider doing away with capital punishment.

Since then the governor has said that tying the question of Chessman's fate to the proposal has hardened the opponents of abolition of capital punishment and that there is little chance of the death penalty being repealed.

President Appears In Good Health As Trip Progresses

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP)— President Eisenhower appeared in good health today as he wound up the first half of his South American tour.

The pace appeared to be telling on the 69-year-old President. A morning of fishing Sunday in a mountain stream had left him looking worn and weary. He appeared perked up after a nap. This morning, ruddy-faced and suntanned, he looked to be in good shape as he bade goodby to Argentine President Arturo Frondizi.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said: "I think he is feeling fine." The two White House physicians who regularly travel with the President, leave health statements to Hagerty.

Eisenhower Saturday squeezed in four holes of golf and walked the course without an electric cart. Reporters who follow him regularly thought it was the first time he had played without a cart since his heart attack in 1955.

Asks Red Cross Support

WASHINGTON, (AP) — President Eisenhower has asked generous contributions for the annual Red Cross drive opening Tuesday.

"The Red Cross is truly an integral part of our national life. . . It typifies the spirit of man helping man," Eisenhower said in a statement filmed and taped for release Sunday night.

Two Drivers Have Cases Postponed In Local Court

Vincent Bouck, 21, of 406 Wilbur Avenue, faced City Judge Aaron E. Klein today on three charges dealing with the operation of an automobile.

Two charges, the making of unnecessary noise and failure to comply with the order of a policeman were listed early Sunday, and the third summons, dealing with alleged operation of a car after sunset without lights, was issued later.

The case was put over to Tuesday, because Judge Klein disqualified himself from hearing the case, and to permit the defendant time to contact counsel.

Hearing on a charge of driving while intoxicated against Bernard Leroy Johnson, 20, of Sawkill, was also put over to Tuesday to permit him time to obtain counsel. Johnson's arrest followed a three-car collision on Broadway near Henry Street Friday night, in which four persons were injured.

The car, driven by Johnston, was owned by Floyd Embree Jr., of 209 Greenkill Avenue. The other cars, stopped for a traffic light, were driven by Edward C. Hearn, 51, of Box 226, Rosendale, and Harvey Semilof, of 1 Douglas Drive, Lake Katrine.

Edward Tomczyk Named Cub of Year At Pack 19 Dinner

Edward L. Tomczyk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tomczyk of 211 Downs Street, was named "Cub Scout of the Year" recently at the annual Blue and Gold banquet of Cub Pack 19, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1386, Kingston, at St. James Methodist Church hall.

The honored Cub was selected by an outside committee which judges achievements on attendance, conduct, appearance, leadership, special projects, advancement and parent participation. Former "Cubs of the Year" included John Fisk, Ronald Rittie, Carl Schleede and Joseph Romano.

Covered Dish Served

The banquet, in the form of a covered dish supper planned by the den mothers, featured Scout Executive Alex MacDonald as the main speaker and Robert Tremper of Troop 11 as the song leader. The invocation was given by George Lewis, with Tremper offering the Benediction.

Cubmaster Henry P. Eighmey was presented with a gift of appreciation from the pack committee and cub scouts, by Den Mother Mrs. Lillian Rittie.

Mr. and Mrs. Garvin Fisher and son, Gary, of First Avenue, were welcomesd into Pack 19, Den 3.

New York State Personal Income Highest in 1958

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP — New York State had the highest total personal income in the nation in 1958, nearly 42 billion dollars, despite a business recession.

The record income was 876 million more than the previous year, although the state's 2.1 per cent increase in income from 1957 was below the national average of 2.4, the State Commerce Department said Sunday.

California had a gain of 4 per cent; Texas 3.5 and Massachusetts 2.8. New York was fourth.

Other figures, based on data from the U. S. Commerce Department, showed:

New Yorkers per capita income averaged $2,609, which was $500 above the national average but lower than Connecticut, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Income in metropolitan New York City rose 3.2 per cent. Of the total increase of 876 million dollars, 710 million was in the city, $84,300,000 in Suffolk County and $72,900,000 in Westchester County.

Western New York was the area hardest hit by declines. Income went down $71,800,000 in Erie County, $27,300,000 in Niagara County and by smaller amounts in Chautauqua and Cattaraugus counties.

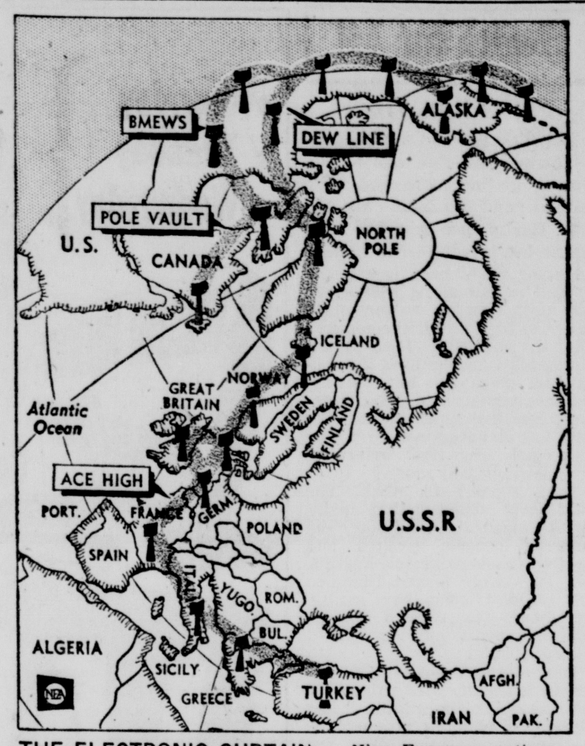

The largest increase in percentage in per capital income was in Tioga County, where International Business Machines Corp. opened a plant. A 17 per cent gain increased the per capita income in the county to $1,667.

Westchester County had the highest per capita income in the state, $3,456. New York City was second with $2,906, Nassau was third with $2,811 and Schenectady was fourth with $2,641.

Bids Due in March

NEW YORK (AP)—The General Services Administration will accept bids next month on the Naval industrial ordinance plant at Dresden, Yates County.

The bids will be opened April 15 in the GSA's New York City office. The plant consists of 31.01 acres of land and 18 buildings.

THE ELECTRONIC CURTAIN — Nine European nations—Norway, Denmark, Britain, West Germany, Belgium, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey—are building a surprise attack warning system 8,845 miles from the Arctic to the Mediterranean. It will be known as "Ace High" and will cost between 50 and 75 million dollars. Already half completed, it will be connected to the Western Hemisphere's DEW (Distant Early Warning) Line and BMEWS (Ballistic Missile Early Warning System), which in turn are connected by the Pole Vault Line. Eventually, the entire network will permit the Pentagon and NATO headquarters in Paris to receive word of threat or attack at once.

One Killed, Six Injured

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—A New York State man was injured fatally and six other persons were hospitalized after a two-car collission Saturday on Route 5 near Lake City.

The dead man was Ralph Dozeman, 56, of Orchard Park, Erie County.

Killed in Collision

COMO, N. C. (AP) — Marine Sgt. Marshall Dan Francis, 22, of Camillus, N. Y., was killed Sunday in a two-car collision near this village south of the Virginia state line.

Firemen Lose Truck

RICHLAND, Tex. (AP) — The Richland Volunteer Fire Department's truck bogged down in soft ground and burned along with a six-room frame home Saturday night.

The fire truck was used to haul water to fight fires because the city has no central water system.

Firemen were unable to move the truck to safety after it became stuck at the rear of the Raymond Livingston home.

Won't Single Out Schenectady for Jobless Figures

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department has rejected a request by Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D-NY) for a review of the basis on which unemployment statistics are determined for Schenectady, N. Y.

Stratton wanted the review so as to separate Schenectady from the surrounding area and make it more readily eligible for federal assistance for critical unemployment areas.

The Labor Department includes Albany, Schenectady and Troy in the same labor market area. Largely because of employment increases in Albany, the area was removed recently from the critical unemployment classification. This change occurred in spite of increased layoffs in the Schenectady area.

Stratton was told, that a recent review of the definition of the Albany-Schenectady-Troy area had shown no need for a change in the status of Schenectady but that Saratoga County had been added to the standard metropolitan statistical area definition.

Stratton expressed dissatisfaction with the reply from Assistant Labor Secretary Newell Brown.

"The economic facts of life in the Schenectady area completely belie the reassuring statistics which have been developed on the present basis of computation," he said in a statement.

"The department's own definition makes it clear that 'evidence that the cities are not economically and socially integrated' should be taken into effect.

"Anyone familiar with the area knows that there is a good deal more economic and social integration as far as employment is concerned with Montgomery and Fulton counties than with Albany County."

Stratton said that inclusion of Schenectady with Albany in computing employment figures would deprive Schenectady of any assistance under pending distressed area legislation.

He said he has called on Secretary of Labor James Mitchell to make a "fresh review" of the Schenectady economic situation and particularly with a view to considering the integration of Schenectady's employment with Amsterdam, Johnstown and Gloversville, rather than with Albany and Saratoga.

Press Secretary Ill

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Robert L. McManus, 43, press secretary to Gov. Rockefeller, is hospitalized for treatment of a sinus condition.

McManus, who was appointed press secretary Feb. 16, was admitted to St. Peter's Hospital Thursday. His condition was reported as satisfactory today.

The governor's office said McManus was expected to return to work this week.

Born Feb. 29, He's 104

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP)—For a man who has had but 25 birthdays, Roderick P. Lewis has quite a family.

There are six daughters, four sons, 36 grandchildren and 68 great grandchildren.

Lewis, a retired contractor, was born on Feb. 29, 1856. Though he is 104, he has celebrated a birthday only on each leap year.

Ye Payola of Old

By FRANK TRIPP

The way it's snowballing the payola hysteria could get around to you. If you get anything for free, already you're a suspect and can get legislated into "respectability" if you don't watch out.

In reality it's a phony name for an age old practice; a word invented by legislators and politicians who don't like the word "graft." The first graft — pardon me, "payola" — that I remember was the old free lunch.

It put to shame the rancid peanuts, popcorn and potato chips now served to big spenders in swank cocktail lounges, and was yours with a nickel glass of beer.

The 4 o'clock lunch was a meal. It once was the principal meal of a lot of people. Among them were reporters whose pay was small and appetites enormous. Without the free lunch we would have gone hungry many a time.

* * *

BARS 50 YEARS ago were a city's best news source. At some time of the day the town's live strata of officialdom, society and sports rubbed elbows at the long mahogany. Even many teetotalers were there. Not to be, meant to be out of the know. Newsmen were there for both the lunch and the know.

One of the country's most sumptuous free lunches was that at the old Knickerbocker Hotel at Broadway and 42nd Street, where the big King Cole painting looked down on the long food-laden tables. Every city had its counterpart after a fashion.

* * *

WOMEN never saw a free lunch, for they had yet to be welcome at a bar — if indeed they ever have been welcome. So, for them, I'll explain that what was called a free lunch in the best places, would daily be roast turkey, roast beef, baked ham, smoked tongue, potato salad, cabbage salad, deviled eggs, sardines, olives, pickles, assorted cheeses, chef's creations, and so on. Fridays would bring forth fish, sea food and fried oysters. Most places, you helped yourself.

Where my gang parked the place didn't rate tops, but regularly, and never missing, were turkey wings, breaded veal cutlets, boiled eggs, cold meats and in season always a platter heaped high with soft-shell crabs. Yes sir—crabs—and for free.

The soft-shell crabs are the nubbin of this story. After we had eaten them for years as a sort of superfluous product of the sea, they began to get a bit scarce and the proprietor put a sign on the platter "5c each."

* * *

WELL, brother, you never heard such a ruckus. The customers were up in arms. Many walked out of the place. With them went all of the reporters, who had a double grievance.

On the same day that the crab price went in another sad blow hit us. No more would gentlemen of the press have special treatment. Irrespective of their prominence and expectancy, no longer would they get six beers for a quarter, and the house buy in turn. That had been an age-old custom in this place that got our trade.

We moved up the street to "The Jewsharp" (run by an Irishman and a Jew), a new place that didn't know we always had been nothing more than a "loss-leader." However, that we really were—and proved it.

For when we moved, a big bunch of honest-to-goodness cash customers went with us. It was then we learned that the big shots were as eager to pump us for news as we were to pump them.

* * *

THEN CAME our day. We really came into our place under the sun. A week later the proprietor whom we boycotted staged a colossal dinner for "the press." It was a feed to be remembered. As we gorged ourselves the word passed 'round the table that "six for a quarter and the house buys in turn" would be restored.

Next day we moved back to the old stand. The big shots followed. And we lived happily forever after. Well, not exactly forever, but forever in the days that are worth writing about.

"That's what small respect I have for "as of now."

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — American families are spending whatever additional money they may come by today. The rate of their savings is changing little.

And it is this buy-and-buy attitude—without either a rush to unusual spending as in some previous years or a tendency to hoard as in others—that makes some economists confident that the qualms of a month ago were overdone.

These qualms were born of the break in stock prices and the signs that the big boom that some had looked for was unlikely to get going. Instead the belief is growing that a calmer but steady advance in business activity will last for some time and that the shake out in the stock market has made it a more realistic affair.

The extra income that many families are getting may come from a rise in wage scales or from longer work weeks. It may come from higher dividend or interest payments. It may come from higher fees received by those in the service trades and professions. Or it may come from increased benefit payments either from the government or such private institutions as insurance companies.

But the families are putting away in savings about 7 per cent of their incomes, just as they have been for some time.

Most of the new money—after taxes—slips right through their fingers. It goes for higher priced goods and services, for increased recreation, for longer vacation trips, for expensive hobbies.

This steady spending is keeping most of the American economy humming. It offsets such bobbles as occasional layoffs where earlier sales predictions proved overoptimistic and led to production beyond demand that didn't soar as expected.

The calmer pace may stretch the good times through the entire year, with only the normal summer letdown.

But the consumers are selective in their buying. They aren't buying anything and everything as they tended to do in 1955, encouraged by unusually easy instalment payment terms then.

They are watching prices closely. And they are more quality conscious. Services are getting a larger percentage of individual incomes these days and manufactured goods less. And last year's status symbol may be this year's old hat item.

Health for All

For Adults Only

The little girl had a nasty case of chicken pox. She was tossing around, getting more and more restless and irritable all the time. Her mother gave her some aspirin but it didn't seem to help.

Having a new baby to care for as well as her ailing seven-year old, mother began to feel she'd go out of her mind if she couldn't quiet the youngster. Then she remembered a tranquilizer the doctor had given her for morning sickness while she'd been pregnant. She had some of the capsules left and she gave one to the little girl. The next afternoon she gave her two more.

They seemed to work. The child slept soundly that night. But by noon the next day, she suddenly became twisted and rigid with severe muscle spasms. Her jaws were locked tight, so she couldn't open her mouth. Her head was twisted to one side. Her arms and legs jerked uncontrollably.

The alarmed mother rushed her to a doctor, who got her to the hospital. The hospital had seen other children poisoned by that powerful tranquilizer and promptly administered an antidote. The seizures soon stopped and the little girl left the hospital the next day. She was lucky.

It's always risky to give somebody else medicine that has been prescribed for you. To give a child a drug prescribed for an adult is doubly dangerous. A child's constitution differs from an adult's. Something that does you good can do your youngster a great deal of harm. Let the doctor tell you how to dose a sick child.

User Bound by Limitations Of Banks' Redi-Credit Plan

BY FAYE HENLE

Queries from my mail bag:

About Redi-Credit, the bank loan plan that extends the customer a steady amount to borrow against. The question: Wouldn't it be cheaper to use Redi-Credit than to maintain a special checking account?

Try this and you'll be sorry. Big bankers are watching to see for what purposes you use their new consumer loan plans.

If you try to pay the gas or phone bill via Redi-Credit, expect a polite note from your bank explaining that your credit is being cancelled.

Or be mindful that some banks are charging a 25 cent fee for writing Redi-Credit checks. Banks have devised their services to fulfill specific needs, needs not interchangeable.

* * *

About investing in government issues: Where can you buy Treasury notes, bills, bonds, certificates, a number of readers ask? And, how do we know when new issues are offered for sale?

Your bank can buy any government issue for you. On the new offerings they make no charge. Banks do charge a commission for older issues. These can also be bought through a securities broker.

Watch your daily newspaper for announcements of new government offerings or give your bank orders to alert you. At the moment there appears to be nothing on the horizen as good as the "Magical Fives"—those Treasury bonds offered last October and now selling almost a point above the offering price—or as good as the more recent Treasury Bills with the 5.3 per cent coupon.

Except for weekly bill offerings, the Treasury is not expected to return to the market for money until April. Watch for an announcement March 31.

* * *

How have the buyers of the "Magical Fives" and the subsequent Treasury bills fared?

To date: splendid. Long-term savings—two years or more—won't earn you more than 3¾ per cent in a savings bank against 5 per cent and more on these Treasury issues.

If you had invested your money in the stock market, it is difficult to tell how you might have fared. Those who judge the market by the indexes would tell you you'd have done poorly. Personally, since none of us buy an index when we invest in common stocks, I don't think this is a fair gauge.

Nonetheless, stocks have been under pressure while your investment in these Treasury issues promises you a fixed return on your investment in a specified period of time.

* * *

One of the best equities anyone can have is the equity in a home. No surprise then that the question is asked: Is there any rule of thumb how much a homeowner should set aside each year for maintenance and repairs.

To a considerable extent this depends upon the size and age of your home. Nationwide, there is no adequate index but the Long Island Home Builders suggest that $25 in the kitty monthly should provide you with an adequate reserve.

By midyear, however, an absolute answer should be forthcoming. By that time the U. S. Bureau of the Census expects for the first time in its history to issue a report on home maintenance costs. I'll keep you posted on this.

220 Steelworkers Strike in Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—About 220 members of a United Steelworkers union local are on strike at the Bliss and Laughlin finishing plant.

A representative of Local 2248, which voted Sunday to strike, said the union objected to the discontinuance of a year-end bonus and to wages and fringe benefits it said were not comparable to the rest of the steel industry.

The six-cent hourly bonus was not in the union contract, the union spokesman said, but had been given for more than 20 years by verbal agreement.

A three-year contract expired June 30 but workers had agreed to extensions.

Girl Still Living, She's 'Very, Very Ill'

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y. (AP)—A 21-year-old woman previously reported killed in the crash of an Italian airliner at Shannon, Ireland, was listed today as alive but "very, very ill."

Barbara Cologgi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Cologgi, was returning with her parents from a visit with relatives in Rome when the plane crashed Thursday. Mrs. Cologgi was killed in the crash. The girl's father is in critical condition.

Officials at Limerick Regional Hospital in Shannon said Miss Cologgi was suffering from multiple burns.

Sheriff Dies

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—H. Donald McColl, 63, of Nunda, sheriff of Livingston County, died Sunday in Strong Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

He had his present post since 1946 and was a former state director of the National Sheriff's Assn.

Berries, and No Bears

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin berry crop was good this year. As a result, tourists were disappointed. Why? Bears in the northern resort country were so happy with their amply supply of wild berries they did'nt bother to venture into isolated town dumps looking for food. Tourists often parked their cars near these dumps to watch the bears.

Knocking His Job

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Frank Dionesopulos was appointed Milwaukee County coroner and he immediately announced his main objective: to have the office abolished. Dionesopulos said the $50 a month coroner's post was unnecessary because the county medical examiner's office performs the duties formerly carried out by the coroner.

Why We Say--

ROMAN MYTHOLOGY: When people speak of a drowning man, they invariably speak of him "going down for the third time," although he may actually go down more or less times. The idea for the "third time" came about from Roman mythology where drowning involved the wrath of three gods, sky, air and water. They each pushed the victim down.

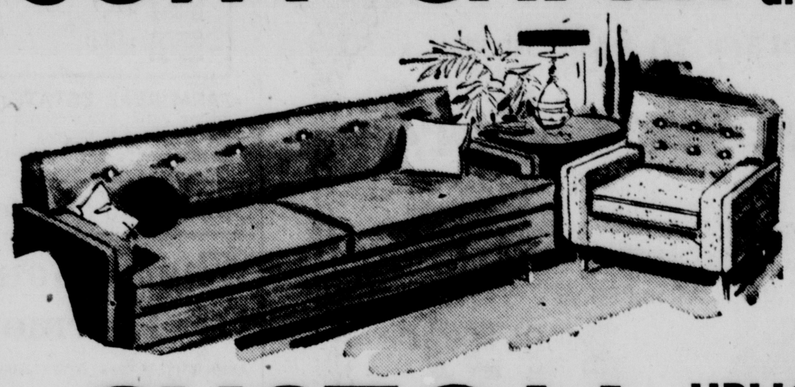

THE PAST RENEWED — A meeting of two eras is symbolized by the horse and buggy and auto at the covered bridge over the Cooper River in Delaware Township, N. J. However, this bridge, reminiscent of the past, is different. It was just built.

Schuyler Jail Closed Following Escape of Youths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y. (AP)—Schuyler County sheriff Maurice F. Dean closed the Schuyler County jail today in the wake of a jailbreak by two youths believed headed for Ohio or Florida.

Melvin Horton, 20, and David C. Buckley, 17, both of nearby Monterey, escaped Sunday night after telling two other prisoners in the jail they intended to go either to Cincinnati or to Florida.

"The jail is insecure," said Dean today.

He ordered the two remaining prisoners transferred to Chemung County jail at Elmira.

The steel bars in the windows of the 104-year-old jail have crystalized and rusted with age, said Dean, and anyone aware of the weakness can easily break out. Construction for a new jail is expected to start within a few months.

Police in 14 states were alerted for the two escaped prisoners. Roadblocks were set up by State Police and sheriff's deputies in Schuyler and adjacent counties.

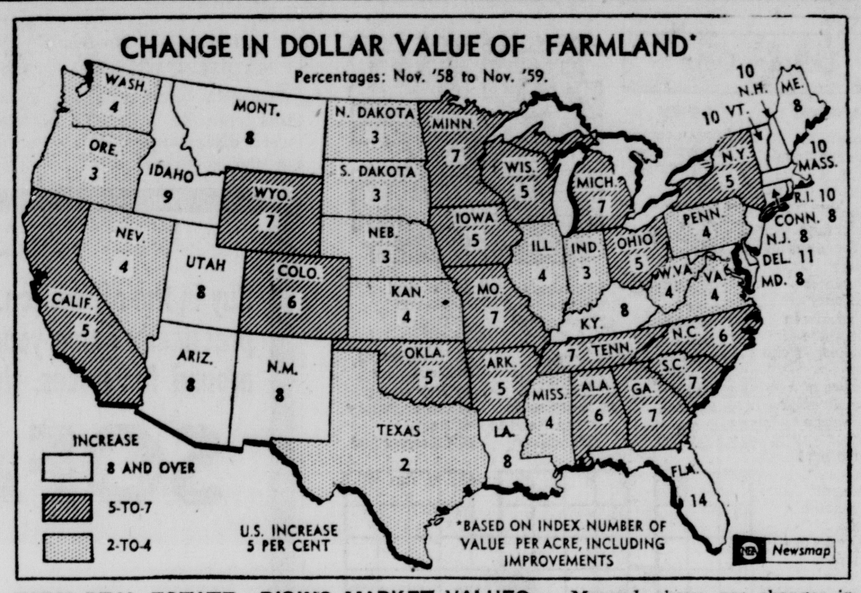

Horton and Buckley, who had been indicted on third - degree burglary charges, removed their cell door from its hinges, Dean said, and used it to pry a bar from a nearby window.

They escaped through an exercise yard, climbed a wooden fence and drove away in a 1949 pickup truck.

Dean said he believed the youths were unarmed.

The break was discovered at 10 p. m., Dean said, but other prisoners told him the escapees had been gone about an hour. They were present at a 7:30 check, he said.

The pair was arrested at Kissimmee, Fla., last December and returned here after an alleged burglary of a store in nearby Monterey.

What About Consequences Of Thermonuclear Attack?

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — To prepare for the possibility of a thermonuclear war without preparing for the consequences may justifiably, perhaps, be described as total lunacy.

This is a point no one of any public stature has raised very tellingly so far in the current debate over whether the United States is lagging behind the Soviet Union in the so-called missile race.

There is a building in the arctic something called the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System which, supposedly, will give you 30 minutes warning of an attack.

In a casual conversation with Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) one day, the question was posed as to what he would do if the warning siren blew.

The senator replied, "I would probably just lie down on the sidewalk and pray. I'd rather do that than go into a cellar. The building might collapse on me."

As an afterthought, Saltonstall said he had often wondered whether no warning at all would be preferable.

The point is: There is now no place to hide in a thermonuclear war.

From time to time you are advised by your federal government to prepare for disaster by keeping a certain amount of gasoline in your car along with an escape kit of food and water. Where are you going?

You are also advised to keep a two-week supply of food and water on hand in your home. What home?

Public buildings now have neat signs underlined by arrows in their lobbies saying "Shelter." Except at great distance they'd be useless if a hydrogen bomb falls.

Has anyone ever told you the effects of fire, blast and fallout to be expected by the explosion of a thermonuclear warhead containing the equivalent of millions of tons of high explosive?

Keep in mind, too, that this nation is committed, publicly, at least, to a policy of submitting to attack first, of striking back only if we are hit.

In a general, all-out thermonuclear war the nation with the greater survival potential will be the winner — if there is such a thing.

This means shelters underground designed to withstand fire and blast and to filter fall-out. With 30 minutes warning at least some people can escape death by taking refuge in them. Those who reach them are the ones upon whom this nation will depend to pick up the pieces.

To date, however, no government agency has made a determined, massive effort to provide such shelters or to tell you what to do if you have to use them.

The Soviets are being far more realistic. There are compulsory survivial courses for the entire population. Shelters are being built around factories.

Whatever the casualties in the cities, the Soviets apparently are making an effort to save as many of their technical workers as possible.

A deterrent force serves its purpose only if it can guarantee utter destruction of the enemy's will and capacity to fight.

Will and capacity depend on who and what survive.

Won't Give Over All Files Unless Queries Relevant

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner says he won't turn over just any city file to the Little Hoover Commission — only those files considered relevant to the commission's investigation.

"We will give them the files in individual cases, provided that what they ask is relevant," Wagner told newsmen Sunday. "We are not going to give them wholesale files."

Wagner said on a television program that he had written the commission last week informing it that the city did not plan to turn over all its files.

After the program, the mayor clarified the statement by saying that a specific file requested by the commission had been turned over. It was understood that the file involved an area that the city Department of Investigations had been checking into.

Princess Margaret Often Regarded as a Playgirl For Love of Good Times

By NORMA GAUHN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The workaday world's favorite fairy princess is engaged to be married.

The betrothal of Britain's Princess Margaret Rose to court photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones was announced last Friday by Queen Elizabeth, the queen mother.

Queen Elizabeth's younger sister, unwilling to be bound completely by stuffy court regulation, has always lived a gay life of her own. Some critics labeled her a playgirl for her partying and love of jazz and good times.

But it was four years ago that rigid royal tradition forbade her first great love — for Peter Townsend, a divorced man she had known since her teens.

Margaret Rose, always a religious girl, heeded the Church of England, which opposes remarriage of divorced persons.

Since she renounced Townsend — who has since married again — there had been a swirl of speculation over future romance for the blue-eyed 29-year-old princess.

Since babyhood she has commanded attention.

The Duke and Duchess of York had hoped their new baby would be a son and heir. They already had a 4-year-old daughter, Elizabet — nicknamed "Lilibet."

The little princesses were brought up by their shy father in the quiet manner of the daughters of an English country squire. But a royal romance changed their lives.

Differ in Temperament

The education of Lilibet as heiress presumptive thereafter was directed toward the crown she subsequently inherited as Queen Elizabeth II. And it served to point up the sisters' sharp difference in temperament.

Elizabeth was reserved and somewhat retiring, always conscious of her dignity in the manner of her grandmother, the Dowager Queen Mary. Margaret was known as the mischievous one with a vivid imagination.

Margaret and Elizabeth spent the World War II years at Windsor Castle. They appeared in a pantomime for charity, and Margaret, then 13, showed her quick wit.

She suggested the front row seats be priced at 7 shillings 6 pence ($1.04). When her sister protested this was too much, Margaret quipped: "They'll pay to see us."

NEXT: The Rocky Road to Romance.

ALL WE HEAR IS "NYET!"

"Nyet" is the Russian word for "no." To 76 million oppressed people behind the Iron Curtain in captive nations, "nyet" is a hated word. "Nyet" to freedom of speech, "nyet" to freedom of the press, "nyet" to the right to know the truth, "nyet" to all the freedoms we Americans take for granted.

But freedom cannot be taken for granted. It has always been won by toil, money and blood and must be zealously guarded.

RADIO FREE EUROPE helps you protect your freedom by bringing the truth and a glimpse of freedom to people who live in the dark world of communist lies.

RADIO FREE EUROPE needs your dollars! Freedom-loving Americans are its only means of support. President Eisenhower himself has warned us not to take freedom for granted, not to take chances with our own future.

ISOLATED HOLD-OUT

Avan T. Garde has musical ideas way ahead of of his time. In fact, in order to hear the music he really likes, Mr. Garde has to make it himself . . . and go off by himself to play it, since only Mr. Garde likes what he likes. In his dedicated isolation, he prides himself on the assumption that, if nothing else, he's saving a bass drum full of money on electricity by not listening to the radio or hi-fi recordings.

ACTUALLY, Mr. Garde's "savings" wouldn't keep him in reeds for his sax. For just 1c he could play the radio for three hours, or the record player for two.

* * *

Music, news, and entertainment for everybody, at a fraction of a cent an hour . . . that's just one more reason why the average family is using twice as much electricity today as in 1947.

Name Catholic Charities Drive Directors Head

Preliminary plans for organizing the 20 parishes in Ulster County for the 1960 fund appeal for New York Catholic Charities, were discussed last week at meetings attended by the active parish directors.

As in previous years each parish is being organized on an individual basis by a priest director appointed by the pastor. He will be assisted by a parish lay chairman who will appoint committees and enlist volunteers for the solicitation period.

The house-to-house solicitation for contributions will take place March 27 to April 6, the period designated by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, who has suggested a day's wage or income as a standard for generous giving.

In addition to providing many direct services to the poor and needy, the prime responsibility of Catholic Charities is as a planning, coordinating and emergency-financing agency for the programs and activities of 192 separate health and welfare organizations whose services cover the entire field of social welfare. Last year these were extended to nearly 600,000 men, women and children.

The goal of the appeal this year is $3,260,530 which represents a five percent increase over last year's goal, and based on the minimum estimated budget required to meet demands for services and soaring costs.

Parish directors for Ulster County are: the Rev. Daniel H. Daley, St. John the Evangelist; the Rev. Joseph F. Hamilton, Adm., St. Mary's of Saugerties; the Rev. Edmund V. Radford, St. Colman, East Kingston; the Rev. Lawrence H. Gibney, St. Mary and St. Andrew, Ellenville; the Rev. Archibald H. Damm, St. Joseph, Glasco, and the Rev. Joseph Di Luna, St. Augustine, Highland.

Also, the Rev. John J. Curry, St. Peter, Rosendale; the Rev. James S. Kelley, CSsR, Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Port Ewen; the Rev. John Nally, M.S., Francis de Sales, Phoenicia; the Rev. Joseph W. Hickey, St. Joseph, New Paltz; the Rev. Francis X. Schwarz, St. James, Milton; and the Rev. John D. Simmons, St. Mary, Marlborough.

Also, the Rev. James P. Keating, St. Joseph's, who is district manager of Ulster County; the Rev. William V. Reynolds, St. Peter's; the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, St. Mary's; the Rev. Joseph J. Sieczek, Immaculate Conception; the Rev. Joseph G. McIntyre, Holy Name of Jesus; the Rev. William J. O'Donnell, St. Ann; the Rev. Jeremiah F. Nemecek, St. John and the Rev. Bernard P. Stage Mothers Are Tenacious Says Popular Actress

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

One of today's most virulent and tenacious types is the stage mother, says lovely Sandra Church, who admits she owes her current Broadway success to such a one.

Sandra plays the role of Gypsy Rose Lee in the current musical hit, "Gypsy," starring Ethel Merman as the determined and ambitious mother who drove both her daughters to stardom.

"It all sounds so familiar," sighs Sandra. "Of course my mother wasn't quite as violent as Gypsy's, but still she never let me forget that my one goal in life was success on the stage or in the movies."

Sandra made her stage debut at the age of 5, wearing a flag costume and singing "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy" at a neighborhood theater in Hollywood.

Sandra's childhood was filled with ballet and acting lessons and speech practice at home.

"All my spare time was taken up with lessons and practicing, so I never had a chance to make many friends and go around with the rest of the boys and girls in school.

"I couldn't have dates, because I didn't have time, and I hardly knew how to talk to a boy even when I was 16."

It was at 16 that Sandra got her big chance — a request to come to New York to try out for a role in the road company of the Broadway play, 'Picnic,' replacing Janice Rule. She got the job, and became one of the rising young stars of Broadway.

Sandra is enjoying life as an actress now, and admits that she probably never would have made it if it hadn't been for her mother. But she's still not sure a normal childhood wouldn't have been better.

Spring Creations Revealed by Paris Fashion Designers

By NADEANE WALKER

Buyers and manufacturers have had a month to exploit the new styles before copyists get a chance to make what they can of pictures and sketches.

The public can now take its choice between Dior's somewhat shapeless "Silhouette of Tomorrow," Nina Ricci's whirling gypsy line, Heim's conical Eiffel tower, Ballmain's tubelike Corinthian column, Lanvin-Castillo's "free and easy" fashions, or half a dozen others.

The "free and easy" claim and a hemlength that just covers the knees, incidentally, are the two things that all the major fashion collections have in common.

The waistline wanders from normal to low to high, jackets are long, or short, or medium, and the new colors make up a whole spectrum — white, coral pinks, violets, blues, yellows, pale green, beige, grey, navy, and black and white combinations. Shallow scoops and bateau necklines are winners, and sleeveless dresses are as common as crocuses in spring.

Nothing the designers brought out could be described as revolutionary. Even Saint - Laurent's "Silhouette of Tomorrow" didn't keep the fashion crowd sitting on the edge of its chair for long.

What could be less original than the small-waisted, flaring-skirted pleated-princess style which is the basis of Ricci's 1960 gypsy? But by a sort of slight-of-seam, designer Crahay's creations on a familiar theme managed to look fresh as a daisy.

Lyric Choristers Plan April Concert

Under the direction of Rolland E. Hermance, Lyric Choristers are preparing a concert for their sponsors and friends at Kingston High School Auditorium on April 9.

Thirty women from Kingston and area have chosen a program including numbers from Mother Goose Suite by Lewis Henry Horton to music by Franz Shubert and Shanda, the famous polka from the opera "Shanda" by Jaromir Weinberger.

Walton McClure, baritone of Cornwallville will be guest soloist at the spring concert to be presented by Lyric Choristers. Mr. McClure will be featured at this concert after being unable to take part in the Choristers' Christmas Concert. John McCullough graciously sang two groups of songs at that concert.

Members of Lyric Choristers are contacting those who would like to join in an inactive status. Those who would enjoy becoming sponsors may contact any member or call Mrs. Richard Matthews, president of the Choristers.

Rising Costs Are Discussed at Meeting Of Auxiliary by Hospital Administrator

In an attempt to inform the Auxiliary members at their regular monthly meeting of the behind -the scenes cost in hospital functions Mr. Schnitzer outlined the reasons for the increased costs in hospital care.

The rising cost spiral which affects each and every home in no way spares a modern and aggressive hospital such as the Kingston City serving an area population of over 100,000 people. Food prices, the cost of linens, higher and higher costs for medicines, and the ever increasing cost of surgical instruments and other medical products count for multiple dollar increases each year.

Pointing with pride to the program of constant modernization in our local hospital, Mr. Schnitzer spoke of the use of disposable hypodermic needles which cost a seemingly reasonable five cents each. Although the use of these needles aids in prevention of the spread of communicable infections, the bill for these needles in a single day at the hospital could stagger the imagination.

Patient care, as outlined by Mr. Schnitzer, is not adaptable to factory methods of automation. The care of patients, and rightly so, is a matter of individual attention and work. The hospital today in a competitive labor market is forced to pay constantly increasing wages to attract and hold the type of competent employe with whom to entrust the lives of its patients. In the local Kingston Hospital over 65% of the yearly expenditures are for salaries and wages.

Although the members of the Auxiliary were deeply appreciative of Mr. Schnitzer's insight into the financial side of the hospital administration, they were none the less conscious of the fact that an annual five per cent rise in these costs meant an actual doubling of these costs about every 15 years. Not a very bright outlook for a hospital struggling to keep patient costs to a minimum.

Prior to the address by Mr. Schnitzer, Mrs. Dominic Cioni, president of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, received the reports of the officers and committee chairmen.

Mrs. Ted Smalldon, membership chairman, introduced the new active Auxiliary members, the Mmes. Richard Rand, William Keith, Richard Wood, Agnes Maroon Schmidt, and Miss Cynthia Stenger .The new assciate members are the Mmes. Norman McLeod, Harold Newman, and Frederick Poag. Mrs. Wilbur Peters was a guest for the evening.

The Sales Cart Committee reported a meeting with six ladies representing the Greene County Memorial Hospital who will soon start a Sales Cart service as a result of the informative and inspiring ideas received during their visit here.

The president announced the appointment of Mrs. George Hepner as chairman of the Nominating Committee to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Richard Stewart who has moved. The committee members are the Mmes. Frederic Holcomb Sr.; Arthur Hazenbush; Warren Simmons; and Gifford Beal.

Mrs. Anthony Turck, chairman of desk committee, announced a meeting of the desk volunteers to be held on March 28 at 1 p. m. to receive and discuss the new desk manuals.

The co-chairman of the Candy Stripers, Mrs. Robert Harkins, announced the purchase of the caps to be awarded to the girls who had served 100 hours in the hospital. The girls who will be receiving these caps are the Misses Judy Wadnola, Maria Kurtz, Cathy Burns, Sandy Grier, Jean Engle and Barbara Scully. A letter from Dr. Curtis P. Bight, chairman of the Medical Society of the County of Ulster, expressing the appreciation for the Candy Stripers help in diabetic control work was read. A manual for Sales Cart help by the Junior Auxiliary members has been compiled by Mrs. George Riffenbury and Mrs. David G. Smith.

Mrs. Gifford Beal, dance committee chairman, reported that the dance proceeds exceeded the Auxiliary pledge to the Memorial Building Fund. The balance will be used toward the purchase of additional desks and easy chairs for the rooms of the student nurses.

Mrs. Richard Kalish, co-chairman of the Card Party, reported that the affair will be held in conjunction with the Kingston Hospital Nurses Alumna Association with parties in the afternoon and evening. The card party will be held on Tuesday, April 26.

Refreshments were served by the Mmes. Gifford Beal, G. V. D. Hutton, and Thomas W. Reynolds Jr., hostesses for the evening.

Local Girl Completes Pre-Clinical Program

The presentation of her nurse's cap to Miss Priscilla Jeanne Carnright of 104 Main Street, this city, marked the end of her pre-clinical program at the Albany Medical Center School of Nursing.

Miss Carnright was graduated from Kingston High School in June of 1959. She will continue her clinical program at the Albany Medical Center School of Nursing, completing her course in the fall of 1962.

A Tactless Friend

Dear Mrs. Post: Isn't it the height of bad manners, when visiting at the house of a friend, to call the hostess' attention to the fact that there are cobwebs hanging from the ceiling in the living room? This happened to me recently and I was very much upset over it. I am aware of the fact that the cobwebs shouldn't have been there in the first place, but I can only say in my own defense that my house was thoroughly cleaned the day before, but unfortunately I happen to have the type of heating system that seems to produce an unusual amount of webs. The friend who called them to my attention is a friend of long standing, but even so, isn't there a point beyond which even a very old friend should not venture?

Answer: The very fact that you were upset proves the tactlessness and even bad manners of the friend who called your attention to the cobwebs.

Seating in Theatre

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please advise the correct seating in a theater when a couple have a young lady guest with them? Heretofore, we have allowed our guest to precede us to her seat, then I followed, then my husband. I have been told that our guest should be seated in the center. Is this true, and if so, wouldn't it be discourteous of me to enter the row before her?

Answer: You should precede your guest saying, "I'll go first so that you can sit between us.

The Bride's Mother's Dress

Dear Mrs. Post: At an eleven o'clock morning wedding is it proper for the bride's mother to wear a long dress?

Answer: If she chooses to, this is the one occasion when a long skirt is properly worn in the morning. This assumes, naturally, that the bride is wearing a long bridal dress with veil.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-2, entitled, "Formal Wedding Procedure," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. College Community Symphony Orchestra Will Begin Rehearsals on Tuesday Again

The College-Community Symphony Orchestra at the State University College of Education, New Paltz, will end its winter recess and begin rehearsing again Tuesday at 7:15 p. m.

The meeting place, as usual, will be the Music Room directly underneath the stage in the College Auditorium wing of the main building. All former members and other interested amateur or professional musicians in the area are invited to come with instruments to this first rehearsal. The Tuesday evening meetings will be climaxed with a concert which is scheduled for May 10.

In announcing the resumption of rehearsals, O. Lincoln Igou, professor of music and director of the orchestra, said that one of the most colorful programs ever prepared by the group was in prospect for the spring concert. "There will be music to satisfy the eighteenth century enthusiast," he said, "and also some works for those who prefer the richer colors of the nineteenth century."

The orchestra is a volunteer group of some 50 musicians who possess a fair degree of technical skill on their various instruments but who are willing to spend one evening a week for a few months to see what it is that makes great music a fascinating, complicated work of art that it is.

Mr. Igou indicated that string players are in greatest demand, but there is room for sincere musicians, from ages sixteen to sixty, in almost every section. No formal auditions are required.

Snowball Wedding at St. Mary's Church For Josephine Fasano and Robert Smith

Miss Josephine Marie Fasano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Fasano of 215 West Chester Street, exchanged nuptial vows with Richard Bishop Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of 104 Elmendorf Street on Sunday, Feb. 28 at 2 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, this city.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Lawrence Everett, CSsR, of Mt. St. Alphonsus. Assisting was the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie in modified princess fashion styled with a fitted bodice, long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists and a circlet neckline outlined with hand clipped Alencon lace. The bouffant skirt terminated in a chapel length circular train, later arranged in bustle effect for the reception. The French illusion fantasy veil was shirred to a crown of rhinestones and seed pearls. The bride carried a lace covered prayer book with white Frenched carnations, stephanotis and cascading streamers.

Miss Carmela Fasano, the bride's sister, served as the maid of honor. Attendants were Miss Anne Toner, Elmhurst, L. I.; Miss Barbara Granwehr, Saugerties; Miss Patricia Nawe, Vincent Street, this city; Mrs. Angelo Fasano of 41 Hanratty Street, the bride's sister-in-law; Miss Marie Roach, Sawkill and Miss Simone Bush of 8 John Street, this city.

The maid of honor and all the attendants were gowned identically in white silk chiffon with softly gathered bodices, abbreviated sleeves and scooped necklines. The deep hemmed full skirts were ballerina length. Bow type headpieces of Banderi red satin and matching shoes completed their ensembles.

The honor attendant carried a heart shaped bouquet of red carnations and white stephanotis with lace backing. The attendants also carried heart-shaped bouquets of red carnations with lace backing.

John Tomaseskie of 51 Newkirk Avenue, this city, served as best man. Ushers were Wesley Styles, Grandview Avenue; William Husta, 10 Liberty Street; Angelo Fasano, the bride's brother; Kenneth Hyatt, 28 Janet Street; Lance Lasher of 295 Albany Avenue; and David Roach, 185 Wall Street, all of Kingston.

More than 300 guests were entertained at a reception given at The Capri in Port Ewen. The Joe Vigna Ensemble provided music for the occasion. Among those extending congratulatory wishes to the bride and bridegroom at the reception was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Austin V. Carey.

The bride was graduated from the Academy of St. Ursula and the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing. Prior to her marriage she was on the nursing staff of the Benedictine. The bridegroom, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is now serving with the U. S. Army at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in El Paso, Texas.

Choir Mothers Plan Bus Trip to New York

Final reservations for bus trip to New York on Saturday, sponsored by Choir Mothers, Old Dutch Church, are to be made with Mrs. John R. Warren by Wednesday.

The bus will leave the church at 7 a. m. and the return trip will leave the Port Authority Terminal at 9 p. m.

BIRTHDAY CAKE FOR MRS. ELLSWORTH—Mrs. Joseph Popkin, representative of B'nai B'rith Women, presents a birthday cake to Mrs. Sarah Ellsworth, patient at the Ulster County Infirmary, who was 99 years old on Friday, Feb. 26. Unappreciative

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Abraham M. Ellis was introduced at the meeting of the Beth Jacobs Schools as the re-elected president. "Mr. Ellis would have been unhappy if he had not been re-elected," Albert M. Lieberman told the meeting. Said Ellis: "Yes, I would have been unhappy if I had not been elected again. But now that I am re-elected, I am twice as unhappy."

156th Guardsmen End Muster Event With Dinner-Dance

The annual winter dinner-dance of the officers of 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York National Guard Saturday evening at Beekman Arms, Rhinebeck climaxed the week-long muster activities of the guardsmen.

Chief Warrant Officer Thomas W. Miller gave the invocation. Major Arthur H. Marx of Poughkeepsie, commanding officer of the 156th, extended greetings to the officers and their ladies and expressed his confidence in the ability of officers and men of the 156th "to maintain high ratings, excellent organizational strength, and to improve technical knowledge of artillery and to develop great military leaders from among the members. With the development of an entirely new 'Family' of self-propelled artillery by the Army and a wide variety of missile 'hardware' for defense against air attack, artillery officers and men must be ready with know-how and must be trained to the very best of our ability to meet the challenge of future world events.'"

Among the guests present were Major and Mrs. Arthur W. Foehser, Kingston. Major Foehser is the U. S. Army advisor to the 156th Artillery and Captain Harold C. Williams, commanding officer, 133rd Ordnance Company, Peekskill, and Mrs. Williams.

Captain Schrowang, commanding officer of Headquarters Battery of the local unit and chairman of the committee on arrangements, expressed thanks to all the members of his committee for their support and efforts which contributed to the success of the affair. The dinner and dance were sponsored by the officers civil association.

The theme for the evening was "Go Guard" in keeping with the National Guard Bureau's 1960 recruiting campaign. Music for dancing was furnished by the Beekman Arms orchestra, appropriately titled "The Artillery Guards" for the occasion.

B'nai B'rith Women Report on Activities; Nominating Committee Submits New List

Mrs. Max Goldberg, vice president presided at the February meeting of the B'nai B'rith Women's Chapter of Kingston last Wednesday evening at the Jewish Community Center.

Mrs. William Helmrich, social service co-chairman, reported that Mrs. Morton Zucker was elected to the Mental Health Board of Directors. Also that serving as representatives for the Mental Health Committee will be Mrs. Albert Feldman and Mrs. Edward Weissman.

Mrs. Helmrich requested that anyone having linens, white shirts and stockings should turn them over to Mrs. Morris Tucker for cancer dressings.

Volunteers were called to type or write cards for the Cancer Fund Drive. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Paul Wendrow.

Mrs. Irwin Gellen, co-chairman of the second polio clinic with Mrs. William Helmrich thanked the Mmes. Irving Alcon, Ross Ellis, Louis Epstein, William Dean, Max Goldberg, Louis Schwartz, Harry Spiegel, Alan Eisenstein, Arthur Schiff, Joseph Popkin and Merrill Stone all of whom did such an excellent job at the clinic.

The B'nai B'rith annual calendar was ready for distribution at the meeting. Mrs. Stanley Kohnberg and Mrs. Carl Spiegel co-chairman of the commercial listings and Mrs. Robert Ronder and Mrs. Melvin Mones, co-chairman of the birthday listings did a wonderful job of chairing the project.

Mrs. Edward Furman announced that a social is going to be held Thursday, March 3 at 8:30 p. m. at the Jewish Community Center. It will be a game night open to B'nai B'rith members and friends. Mrs. Furman, chairman of this project requested workers.

Mrs. Martin Singer, program co-chairman with Mrs. Allan Segan announced that a very special program is being planned for the next meeting on March 23.

A report was sent in by Mrs. Stanley Plasker, advisor to the B'nai B'rith Girls that the girls are planning an Oneg Shabbot at Temple Emanuel on March 11.

The B'nai B'rith Women received an invitation from the Men's Lodge to attend their meeting at Hotel Kingston on Monday, February 29. The Rev. Stanley Grauer will be the guest speaker and refreshments will be served.

Seven cakes have been baked and presented by B'nai B'rith Women to the patients at the Ulster County Infirmary who have celebrated birthdays during the month of February.

Mrs. Goldberg thanked Mrs. Ross Ellis, hospitality chairman and her committee, the Mmes. Irving Meyer, Alan Eisenstein, Yale Zuckerman, Harvey Semilof, Abraham Greenbaum, Herman Svirsky and Milton Dubin, who prepared and served the refreshments.

Mrs. Herbert Powell, chairman of the nominating committee read the new slate which was unanimously accepted by the group. It is as follows: Mrs. Max Goldberg, president; Mrs. Robert Ronder, Mrs. Charles Ronder and Mrs. Irwin Gellen, vice presidents; Mrs. Irving Alcon, financial secretary; Mrs. Martin Singer, treasurer; Mrs. Stanley Plasker, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ronald Wolfield, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Spiegel, Mrs. Leon Miller and Mrs. Arnold Pinsley, trustees; and Mrs. Merrill Stone, councilor.

Delegates to the Mid-Hudson Council will be the Mmes. Max Goldberg, Charles Ronder, Robert Ronder, Irwin Gellen, Martin Singer, Stanley Plasker, Ronald Wolfield and Herbert Powell. Elections will be held at the March meeting.

Mrs. Harry Spiegel announced that the B'nai B'rith Women were extended an invitation to a City Wide Music Social on March 19 at the Jewish Community Center.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. Martin Singer, program chairman, who presented a very enlightening panel discussion on the topic of "A Child's World" which was of interest to all the women.

Mrs. Charles Ronder, moderator introduced the panelists who were Mrs. Virginia Robison of New Paltz who is the chief psychiatric social worker at the Ulster County Mental Health Center. Mrs. Robison spoke on the relationship between parent and child.

Dr. Paul G. Hoveman of Kingston, a pediatrician spoke on sibling relations and Miss Mary Polhemus of Port Ewen, principal of School No. 3, spoke about the relationship of school and the child.

A question and answer period followed and refreshments were served.

NEW YORK (AP)—The 13 productions brought to Broadway by David Merrick during the past five years have grossed $25,500,000, according to trade estimates. Nine of the projects have already reaped dividends, two are on the way, and the remaining pair are classed as the only financial misses. Merrick currently has five shows running, "Gypsy," "The World of Suzie Wong," "La Plume de Ma Tante," "Destry Rides Again" and "Take Me Along."

Rockefeller Aide Predicts Sweeping GOP Victory in '60

The Republican party will surge back to elect a president and make sweeping gains in Congress in the 1960 national elections, the assistant appointments officer to Gov. Rockefeller told members of the Woodstock Republican Club at their first annual banquet, Saturday night at Deanie's Restaurant.

John M. Walsh, a Fulton attorney, drew a parrellel between the Abe Lincoln era of 1858-60 and the current national scene.

The 1958 congressional results were discouraging to all Republicans, Walsh told the jampacked house of 150 persons, but he predicted the party would rebound from that setback like Lincoln was vaulted into the White House in 1860 after a discouraging defeat in 1858.

Walsh, charging that the Democrats had failed or erred in making momentus decisions, said that in 1960 freedom flourishes in an enviornment of peace.

Need Communications

But, he warned, the Republican party needs better communicatioons with the people. "We must crow louder about Republican progress . . . must explain our principles better," he said. The GOP, has had to labor under false labels as the "party of big business," "anti-union," "the party of special interests."

"We must remind the electorate of the many Republican advances achieved in a quiet dignified manner," continued Walsh. "We must guard the image of being against everything and we must strip the publicity seekers of their masks and expose them as they really are. We will not despair and we will surge back."

Praises Rockefeller

Walsh had high praise for Gov. Rockefeller, whom he described as a dedicated person, with no axes to grind and serving no special interests. He is selfishly dedicated to solving problems, even though the solutions are "not always palatable" to some people.

"Gov. Rockefeller does not shirk the sound course," said Walsh. "He tells the truth and avoids the easier transistory course that might be taken by others." The young attorney said the Republican-controlled legislature in New York, one of the few which was not engulfed by the Democratic landslide in 1958, "is a bulwark of sound, sincere government."

In further support of Rockefeller, the speaker said the governor is a true organization Republican, intensely interested in and concerned with Republican government and policy on all levels in the state. He cited the governor's series of liaison conferences with small groups of county as indicative of his interest on all levels.

Attorney Walsh also had high praise for Assemblyman Wilson, whom he described as an able legislator and one of the finest county leaders in the state — "a man who gets the job done."

Elsworth Speaks

Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth deplored the failure of one third of the voters to exercise the franchise.

Asserting that political clubs and parties are splendid things, Justice Elsworth said the country needs more active participation by citizens in the business of government.

Non-voting is an old problem, the justice went on, and lack of interest by the public often helps create the atmosphere for corruption in public office.

Justice Elsworth congratulated the Republican Club for its excellent record and complimented Woodstock on having such distinguished Republicans as Ken Wilson. He said the honor of Ken Wilson reflected on Woodstock and "the mantle of county leadership has fallen on worthy sholders." He also congratulated Supervisor Molyneaux on his victory and said he would make a great supervisor. The justice also praised Al Cashdollar as an old friend and former county official.

Other introductions by toastmaster Shulman during the evening County Judge Louis H. Bruhn, District Attorney Raymond J. Mino, Judge John B. Sterley, chairman of the Kingston city Republican committee; Councilman John Pike, Town Clerk Marjorie Harder, Justice of the Peace Charles A. Farley; Fred Freitag and Telford Graham of the arrangements committee; and attorney Maurice Glodberg, who was recently appointed an assistant attorney general. Messages of regret were read from Federal Judge John M. Cashin and Judge of the Surrogate Court, Francis X. Tucker.

Toastmaster Walter H. Schulman, general chairman of the dinner, introduced Verner L. May, president of the Woodstock Republican Club, who said the club had an active year in 1959 and has big program planned for the future. He introduced some of the club's prime movers including Fred Freitag, Ruth Kinns, Dick Counihan, Art Hansen, Duncan Wilson, Edith Taylor and directors: Roger Cashdollar, Monroe Longendyke, James McVitty and Fred Thaisz, Jr.

Supervisor Abram F. Molyneaux said he was grateful to the Republican Club for its intensive pre-campaign activity in his behalf. Superintendent of Highways Albert Cashdollar told the audience that the township of Woodstock had pioneered in many things like electric lights, town hall, fire department, water works, street widening, water district and a branch bank.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, chairman of the Ulster County Republican Central Committee, presented former supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons with a gavel enclosed in a beautiful case created by Councilman John Pike. Assemblyman Wilson recalled that he had introduced Fitzsimmons into the political arena through an appointment when Wilson was town supervisor and Fitzsimmons' subsequent record made him proud of that decision. Fitzsimmons, now Ulster County Commissioner of Public Welfare responded with a brief speech and said he would cherish the gift forever.

Special OCS Board Meeting Deals With School Problems

The meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the Boiceville building, will explore the long range problems confronting the school district, amid mounting public pressure for an addition to the Woodstock school and proposals for a new school in the Town of Shandaken.

The Reginald R. Bennett Elementary School, a 14-room addition to the district's facilities, is now under construction, but will not be large enough to meet current needs.

Strong support for a new school in Shandaken has been generated since the last meeting of the Board. At the recent meeting of the Phoenicia Area Chamber of Commerce, a discussion was held concerning the need for new classrooms in the Onteora district.

While members concede the need for additional rooms at Woodstock, they contended that the primary need right now is for a bond issue for an elementary school to be located somewhere in the town of Shandaken. It was pointed out that some children in the Highmount-Pine Hill area have to travel as much as 74 miles a day to reach Onteora elementray school at Boiceville and that a school in the town of Shandaken would save them 14 to 20 miles a day in traveling.

Public Meeting

Residents of the township of shandaken are being urged to attend a special public meeting at the town hall Thursday evening at 8 p. m.

Purpose of the meeting is to arouse the citizens of the area to press for an elementary school building to be constructed somewhere in the town of Shandaken.

Jack Wallace of Pine Hill who is temporary chairman of the as yet unofficial group seeking the establishment of a school somewhere in the town will preside as chairman of the public meeting. A permanent committee will be formed that evening.

Parents, taxpayers, residents and all interested in the future welfare of the town and its children are urged to attend the meeting at town hall, located on Route 28 in Allaben.

The Ulster County Townsman, the official newspaper for the town boards of Woodstock and Shandaken, in its current issue, advocates the building of a new school in Shandaken.

In a front page editorial, the newspaper said: "While we agree that rooms could and should be added to the Woodstock school at some future date, we honestly believe that the crying need in the next year or two is for a school located somewhere in the town of Shandaken."

Special Music Class Started At Local School

A special class in music instructions will start at the Woodstock Elementary school Thursday and will continue on a once-a-week basis for the remainder of the school term, it has been announced.

Approximately 20 pupils have signed for the class which will be taught by Prof. Hanus A. Schimmerling after the regular school day, between 3:30 and 4:15 p. m.

The special class is the brainchild of Prof. Schimmerling and several interested parents. Schimmerling, at a recent P-TA meeting, offered to conduct the class without fee, if parents agreed to pick up their children after school.

The class is not limited and any parent who desires extra musical instruction for their child in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades may place it in the class. The additional instruction now made available to the pupils was impossible under the time limitations of the regular daily schedule.

Ever see a letter sent from "Tin Can Island"? Niuafoo, a small island in the southwest Pacific Ocean, got the nickname from stamp collectors. Due to steep cliffs, boats delivering mail to Niuafoo seal it in large tin cans, tie the cans to long poles, and float the poles to shore. It is a valuable cancellation mark in philately.

Faculty Desires Withdrawal From Defense Program

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—The faculty of the University of Rochester's College of Arts and Sciences has asked the university not to participate further in the National Defense Education program in protest to the program's disclaimer oath.

The non-Communist oath is required of students benefitting from the program. Under the act, the university last year was allowed $110,000 for student loans, plus eight fellowships worth $4,500 each.

The 150-member faculty said Saturday it had adopted a resolution urging that the university "not assume additional responsibilities under the NDE act until the disclaimer affidavit is eliminated."

The Rochester chapter of the American Assn. of University Professors recently asked that the university withdraw from the program no later than next fall.

Advises Emphasis On Competition For Higher Study

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—American youngsters are proud of their muscles, but they seem ashamed of their brains. And that, a college president said today, is a situation that must be changed.

What this country needs, said Dr. Lee A. DuBridge of the California Institute of Technology, is "open, honest intellectual competition throughout our high schools and colleges."

"We have always been perfectly frank about athletic competition, about a boy's ability to make the football or basketball team," he said. "But we have been reticent to talk about differences in intellectual ability."

In a speech prepared for the National Assn. of Secondary-School Principals, DuBridge said the nation's high schools must create an atmosphere in which intellectual achievement is recognized, admired and respected.

By 1970, DuBridge said, at least 65 per cent of the high school graduates will be going on to college or university. The competition for admission is going to be so rough, he added, that the prestige schools, both public and private, will have to raise their standards and accept only those at the very top in ability and achievement.

Praises Puerto Ricans

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Puerto Ricans "command our admiration for their success in adapting themselves, despite the grave difficulties of the language barrier, to . . .a whole new way of life," Gov. Rockefeller says.

South Uses Discard Twice

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At rubber bridge overtricks mean very little, but they do mean something and any time you can pick up one without risk, it is worthwhile to do so. Maybe the next time you will be picking up the trick that gives you the contract.

South won the opening heart lead with the ace and counted 11 top tricks. His first thought was to spread his hand, but South wasn't going anywhere for a while and 20 points is 20 points.

He could get one discard on a heart. Maybe he could use that discard twice.

South drew trumps; discarded a spade on the long heart in dummy, cashed the ace and king of spades, and now was able to ruff a third spade.

East and West both had to follow to that spade and now all South had to do was to go back to dummy with a trump and discard a club on the 13th spade.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

The travelling basketball caravan comes to town Tuesday in a rare attempt to knife through the ennui and monumental indifference that has greeted similar excursions in the past.

First it was the Original Renaissance, the first of the great Negro road attractions in the days of George Yancey, Pappy Ricks, Big Tarzan Cooper, Syre Saitch and other immortals.

They were succeeded by the indestructible Harlem Globetrotters who became an international byword for magic and marvel on a basketball court. And a few years ago when Goose Tatum and Marquis Haynes had some contract difficulties with the Trotters, the Harlem Magicians were born.

Haynes, who is co-owner and manager of the Magicians, was one of the great Globetrotters, along with Tatum and Sweetwater Clifton, who spent several seasons with the New York Knicks of the NBA. He bills himself as "the world's greatest dribbler" and nobody has ever challenged his claim. And if you ever saw Haynes in person you know he stretches human limitations in his incredible control of a basketball.

• Master of His Trade:

There isn't much we can say about Marquis Haynes that hasn't been said before. Haynes dazzles audiences and opponents, as he dribbles sitting, kneeling, lying and crawling on the floor. He is no clown though when it comes to pouring points through the hoop. He is among the most prolific point makers in pro basketball, although burdened by the task of generating the comedy routine of the Magicians.

A scoring demon with either hand, Haynes has electrified fans with his sizzling dribbling exhibitions. He is known to dribble the length of the floor several times and his unique style of dribbling in and away from the opposition put him in a class by himself in the dribbling department.

Along with Sam Wheeler and Josh Grider, the two other Harlem Magician greats, Haynes is a marvelous ball handler and playmaking artist. Last year the trio demonstrated its boxoffice pull by attracting nearly 750,000 fans to a schedule of 219 games.

• Has 30-Point Average:

Haynes averaged more than 30 points per game during the highly successful tour last year and literally proved that he has no peer as an all-around star. The incomparable Haynes started his rise to fame and glory up the basketball ladder at Langston University, near his home town of Sand Springs, Oklahoma.

There is little doubt the Harlem Magicians will fascinate the spectators who are curious enough to venture into the municipal auditorium tomorrow night. Their pre-game routine and the regular shenanigans are entertainment far beyond the modest admission price. Just how many folks will be on hand is a moot question.

In the early professional era, the Original Renaissance made a couple of visits a year to play Pop Morgenweck's teams and the firemen were forced to close the auditorium doors long before game time. There is little likelihood this will happen tomorrow night. On the other hand, it would be nice to see a few around when Haynes and company start moving that ball around.

Never a 500 Triple Shooter, Bonville Explodes for 630

Ken Bonville of the Esopus Legion Mixed League is one of those rare bowlers who has a 600 triple to his credit, yet never experienced the thrill of that first 500.

A 146-average kegler, Bonville jolted the Port Ewen league with a rousing 630 blast last night, rolling games of 179-241 and 200 on alleys 9 and 10 at the Bowlero.

Koenig Leads Winners With 33 Point Show

Frank Koenig outscored Nadler's Motors by himself in the first half in leading Katsbaan Tavern to an easy 103-49 conquest and a first place berth in the final regular season action of the Rec Cage League last night at the auditorium.

Team	Won	Lost
Katsbaan Tavern	9	1
American-Italian	8	2
Nadler Motors	5	5
Sickler's	5	5
Byrne Chevvies	2	8
Maines'	1	9

Koenig had 23 points in the first half and his teammates raced to a 50-19 intermission lead. They were never threatened after that.

In addition to the 33 points registered by Koenig, Ronnie Scheffel had 19, Jack Curry 17 and Buddy Smith 14. Bob Short was outstanding for the losers with 25 points.

Skip Brodhead, Marty Kaye, Tony Grimaldi and Champ Holstein were the ringleaders for the American-Italian five in their win over the Chevvies.

Playoffs in the circuit are scheduled to start next Sunday.

Southern Living

Back north he went. No wins.

U. S. Victory in Hockey Play Highlight Of Olympic Games at Squaw Valley

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—America's Cinderella hockey team capped the climax of a 1960 winter Olympic games that opened amid criticism and closed with high praise.

Coach Jack Riley's Yankees won the first hockey gold medal in this nation's history Sunday by staging a third-period comeback for six goals and a 9-4 victory over Czechoslovakia after trailing 4-3.

That rally brought the United State is third gold medal of the games and a third-place finish behind the Soviet Union and Sweden. The Swedes were one-half point ahead in the unofficial standings.

Four years ago at Cortina, Italy, the forces of Uncle Sam finished sixth with two gold medals—both in figure skating. They captured the same two this time as Carol Heiss and David Jenkins proved victorious. Then came the surprising hockey triumph that included victories by 2-1 and 3-2 over the favored forces of Canada and the Soviet Union.

Soviets Help

The Americans were sitting disconsolately in their dressing room between the second and third periods of Sunday's hockey game. In walked Soviet Capt. Nikolai (Solly) Sologubov, who suggested they all take a whiff of oxygen to offset the 6,200 foot altitude.

The Squaw Valley facilities were lambasted nearly continually since the games were awarded to this area in California's High Sierra four years ago. Criticism ranged from the downhill ski course to hotdog prices.

As the games ended Sunday there were congratulations from European sports officials and from Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee.

The Soviet Union scored 165½ points with big showings in the men's and women's speed skating. In men's skating Eugeni Grishin won gold medals at 500 and 1,500 meters while Lidija Skoblikova took a pair in women's skating.

The Soviets didn't get a gold medal in cross country skiing or successfully defend their Olympic hockey title. But they led in gold medals with seven.

Sweden Second

Sweden tallied 71½ points with three gold medals while Uncle Sam's forces had 71 and Germany 70½. Germany took four gold medals.

East Germany's Helmut Recknagel captured the final one Sunday in the special ski jumping with a best jump of 93.5 meters, or 307 feet. Second place went to Finland's Niilo Halonen, 19-year-old student, who had a leap of 92½ meters or 303 feet as his best. The best the United States could do was seventh by Ansten Samuelstuen of Steamboat Springs, Colo. He had 211.5 points.

Spahn Hoping He Can Pitch Often This Year

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — "If I'm worth my salt, I'll be pitching as often as ever."

So says veteran southpaw Warren Spahn who reputedly will draw $70,000 or more from the Milwaukee Braves for the 1960 season.

Spahn reported to the Braves' baseball training camp Sunday, looking as trim and fit as ever and willing to talk about recent comments by his new boss, Charlie Dressen...

Manager Dressen said last week that he probably would give veterans like Spahn and Lew Burdette four days rest between games "for the good of the club." Some of the younger hurlers complained that they were not used often enough last year to stay in condition. Spahn and Burdette usually worked every fourth day.

"Charlie is running the club," Spahn said. "I want to pitch, period. There are a lot of pitchers in camp and in the long run the manager's going to go with the best. If I'm worth my salt, I'll be pitching as often as ever.

Spahn, who will be 39 in April, reported in at 187 pounds, only a few over his best playing weight. He had a 21-15 record last year and has had 10 seasons in which he won 20 or more games.

Saugerties, AHS Set For DCSL Title Tilt

Action in the DCSL race will reach a crescendo tonight at the neutral Wappingers Falls High School court when Saugerties and Arlington meet in a one-game playoff for the circuit championship. Game time is 7 p. m. and if you want a seat, don't hesitate in getting there early.

This one is a natural. Saugerties won a one point decision from Arlington very early in the season. In a return match at the AHS court, the home side captured a one-point verdict.

The Sawyers dropped a 51-49 decision to Roosevelt in their other league loss and Arlington was nipped, 67-65, by Cardinal Farley Military Academy.

Three of the top players in the area — Mickey SaVino of Arlington and Barry and Bob Wolven of the Sawyes—will see action in this one.

Regardless of the outcome, both teams have earned tournament bids. Arlington will play in the Section One Class A tourney while the Sawyers will participate in the Section One Class B tourney.

The probable starting lineups:

Saugerties	Pos.	Arlington
Barry Wolven	Forward	Mickey SaVino
Bob Wolven	Forward	Rene Luik
Bob Whitaker	Center	Alex Credle
Al Hrdlicka	Guard	Larry Weisbeg
Bill Lezette	Guard	Art Crum

Luis Rodriquez Meets Chico Vejar Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourteen years ago, Kid Gavilan swept into the United States from Camaguay, Cuba like a heat wave. Latin-Americans took to the Kid's bolo punches and exciting rallies like they did to the rhumba and the samba. Five years later, in 1951, Gavilan became the world welterweight champion.

Now, another welterweight boxer from Camaguay, Luis Rodrigues, has moved into the boxing picture. Unbeaten in 27 bouts, Rodriguez gets a chance to climb further up the 147-pound ladder Wednesday night when he takes on veteran middelweight Chico Vejar in a televised (ABC, 10 p.m. EST) 10-rounder in Miami Beach, Fla.

In his last start, Rodriguez stopped Cal Hubbard in four heats at Miami Beach. Until then, the Cuban had shown little power and relied mostly on his boxing skill.

Victor Zalazar was an outstanding soccer player in his native Argentina a few years. Then he switched to boxing because it beats working and "I was too urly." Zalazar turned in a handsome performance in his last start, beating Johnny Hegerle in an exciting eight-rounder.

This triumph earned him the Garden feature Friday against Yama Bahama. Zalazar has had only 14 pro bouts to 67 for Bahama. However, the Argentine fighter had 75 amateur bouts before he turned pro, winning 70 with two draws. The garden middleweight bout will be televised and broadcast (NBC-10 p.m. EST).

Arnold Palmer Wins Texas Open

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, winning money on the golf tour at the rate of $2,500 a week, went on to Baton Rouge, La., today to see about bagging another jackpot.

The broad-shouldered young man from Ligonier, Pa., took $2,800 first money in the Texas Open Sunday, winding up with 276 and a 2-stroke lead. It was his third tournament victory in the last 10 starts and at the rate he's now going he could even surpass the $72,835.83 Ted Kroll socked away in 1956.

Palmer's total official winnings this winter are $18,999.86. Counting money in pro-amateurs he has totaled $20,211.86. He has taken in more cash on the winter tour than any golfer in history.

Arnold didn't exactly finish in a blaze of glory in winning the Texas Open. He limped home with a 3-over-par 75 and had he not held such a long lead starting the final round would have been in deep trouble.

Doug Ford, the Crystal River, Fla., veteran, made a closing rush that got Palmer a little jittery. The two played together in the final threesome. Palmer said it was cold hands — the tournament was finished in bitter cold and high winds — that caused his trouble.

Ford wasn't worried by the weather. He romped in with a 2-under-par 70—the lowest round of the day — to finish two strokes back of Palmer and in a tie for second place with Frank Stranahan, also of Crystal River, Fla. Stranahan, who started the final round in second place, four strokes behind Palmer, had a closing 73 for 278.

Wesley Ellis of West Caldwell, N. J., who won the Texas Open in 1958, finished fourth with 284. Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., was fifth with 285.

Detroit, Mich. (NEA) — In seven seasons of organized ball, Steve Demeter, Detroit rookie third baseman, has knocked in a total of 619 runs.

Arthur Murray Wins Four Games in RVW

Arthur Murray Studio keglers won four of six weekend games in the Rip Van Winkle League while Jones Dairy pennant hopes in the same circuit were hurt as the milkmen could win only two of six.

The Arthur Murray Five stopped Jones Dairy on two games as Kildy Corrado hit 190-213-201-604. The team also won a pair from Rhinebeck Rec with all five keglers hitting above 500.

In addition to losing a pair to Arthur Murray, Jones also lost two at Wappingers Falls against the Holiday Recs. Jim Nottingham was top kegler in the match with 199-181-248-628 but the other side had much better balance.

Starting the weekend, Jones Dairy had trailed league leading Dutchess Recs by six games. Arthur Murray was in fourth place but now trails Jones by only a half game.

College Cagers Heading Into Final 10 Days of This Season

Undated College Basketball sports

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Major college basketball moves into its final 10 days of regular 1959-60 season, still with 20 vacancies to be filled in the two big postseason tournaments — The NCAA and the National Invitation.

Only four conferences of 14 that send automatic qualifiers into the NCAA have been settled, and NCAA officials have announced only five of 11 or 12 at-large selections that round out the first round play beginning March 8.

The NIT, which opens March 10 in New York, still has four vacancies in its 12-team line-up and what happens in the conference races will decide how soon it can get its full field. The NIT habitually takes the runners-up from several of the major conferences, including the Missouri Valley, the Skyline and this year, the Middle Atlantic.

So far, New York U., Miami, (Fla.), Notre Dame, Navy and Idaho State have won at-large berths in the NCAA, with defending champion California — having clinched the first Big Five Conference title—certain of a place and unconfirmed only because the NCAA hasn't yet made the announcement.

Ohio State from the Big Ten, Ohio U. from the Mid-American, Georgia Tech from the Southeastern, and West Virginia from the Southern have wrapped up automatic conferences places.

Eight in NIT

In the NIT, the eight named are Villanova, Detroit, Dayton, Memphis State, Providence, St. Bonaventure, St. Johns and Holy Cross. The four vacancies will go to either Cincinnati or Bradley, running one-two in the Missouri Valley with two games to go; Utah or Utah State, one-two in the Skyline race with two games left; St. Joseph's (Pa) or La Salle in the Middle Atlantic; and probably St. Louis, nationally rated although it will finish no better than third in the Missouri Valley.

The job of getting the other tangles straightened out begins tonight for many of the conferences.

Cincinnati, top-ranked nationally behind the record-busting scoring of Oscar Robertson, can clinch a tie for the MVC crown by beating Tulsa at Cincinnati. Robertson, who set a career field goal record of 969 with 13 baskets among his 37 points Saturday night, leads his mates against Drake for the clincher next Saturday if they get past Tulsa as expected.

Local Keglers Excel In HVBL Competition

The locals bombed 2989 sticks with the "Old Pro" hitting 225-222-199-646, son Jack rolling 199-197-237-633 and Gallo adding 180-213-226-619.

In an all local match, fast rising Sterling Studios rallied to win two games from the Five Merchants. The Merchants collected 1,000 sticks to win the first game and then lost by 20 pins and one pin in the final two.

Kildy Corrado slammed 216-191-227-634 and Bill Lawrence had the same score with 213-240-181 for the Sterling five. Larry Petersen was in good form with 233-207-216-656 and Tom Carlino socked 207-211-201-619 for the Merchants.

Manhattans Sweep Trio; Campi's Edge Bowlero

Manhattan Bowling Balls swept three games from Bowling Time Lanes, while Sangi's Bowlero dropped a 2-1 decision to Campi-Tarsio of Newburgh, in Hudson Valley Women's League action Sunday.

Rose Schatzel cemented her high average leadership with a 203-550. Hilda Murphy posted 228-527 and Sis Balash 525 for Manhattans, who totalled 2545. Jane Drabick shot 500 for BT.

A 244 solo in the third game by Mitchell enabled Campi-Tarsio to win the odd set from the Bowlero squad. Mitchell tripled 569 with other games of 175 and 150. Lorraine Aguiar shot 209-512.

Evelyn Gross paced Sangi's with 200-538 and Evelyn Nitsch had 211.

Warriors Rally To Stop Detroit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's no stopping Wilt Chamberlain for three-quarters of a game. It's all or nothing.

The Detroit Pistons thought they had Chamberlain stifled in Sunday's nationally televised NBA game in Detroit against the Philadelphia Warriors. He scored just seven points through the first half, and managed only five more in the third quarter.

That gave him 12 points for three-quarters. He had been averaging 37.8 points per game. Going into the final quarter, the Pistons were rolling along on an 83-79 lead.

But Chamberlain dropped in 11 points in the final quarter and emerged the big man in overcoming the deficit. With Chamberlain leading the way, the Warriors broke a 98-all deadlock and went ahead 104-99. They finally wrapped it up 113-111, with Chamberlain getting the clincher with 30 seconds to go.

In other games, the Boston Celtics defeated the New York Knickerbockers 129-125 and the St. Louis Hawks turned back the Cincinnati Royals 122-105.

The Celts' triumph kept them 8½ games ahead of the Warriors in the Eastern Division. Bob Cousy collected 14 of his 27 points in the last 14 minutes to nail down the triumph.

The Hawks snapped a three-game losing streak by downing the Royals. Cliff Hagan was high man with 39 points. Any combination of three Minneapolis victories or Cincinnati defeats would kill any chance of the Royals making the playoffs.

Among Great Britain's losses in World War 1 were 750,000 killed.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

BRADENTON, Fla. — (NEA) — A number of the Braves, headed by scrappy shortstop Johnny Logan, contend Charley Dressen will improve the Milwaukee clubs by a half-dozen games or more over the season's haul.

Just how will the new manager go about this?

"First by developing the secondary pitching," says Dressen, checking the records in his cubicle in the Braves' Field clubhouse in Bradenton.

"Last year it was Warren Spahn, Lou Burdette and Bob Buhl. When there was an off day or a game was postponed by rain, Juan Pizarro, Joey Jay and Carlton Willey were by-passed. The result was that Pizarro, Jay and Willey, definitely potential stickouts, were not ready when the big pitchers tired.

"When I first discussed the personnel with Birdie Tebbetts and Johnny McHale, we agreed that young fellows should be worked in. No one can tell me a pitcher doesn't require more rest as he grows older."

* * *

DRESSEN ALSO HAS a change of plan in mind for Eddie Matthews. The third baseman's king-size missiles will be launched from the third or fifth pad in the batting order, ahead or behind those of the even more potent Henry Aaron. Like most other baseball people, Charley couldn't understand the manufacturer of 46 home runs batting second.

Dressen at once made Wes Covington a pet project, put the big left fielder on a diet and had him working over the winter in the Milwaukee County Stadium clubhouse on a stationary bicycle and doing an exercise with a sack of sand on his foot to strengthen the ankle injured so severely last August that an operation was necessary.

The idea is to get Covington back on the .330 power batting beam he enjoyed in 1958.

Del Crandall caught 150 games last season. Dressen doesn't choose to take that much out of a superior catcher, so Stan Lopata will get more work.

"There is no reason why Lopata, experienced and capable of hitting the ball for distance, can't catch the left-handers, Spahn and Pizarro, who hold men on first base," Charley says.

He always figures percentage, except maybe in his own career. Like everybody else, Birdie Tebbetts, the old catcher running the Braves' front office, couldn't understand why Dressen returned to Los Angeles as a coach after having managed the Dodgers to two pennants and lost another in a final playoff game in Brooklyn.

* * *

WHEN DRESSEN LEFT Brooklyn to manage Oakland of the Pacific Coast League, the reason was supposed to be a letter Charley's wife, Ruth, wrote President Walter F. O'Malley of the Dodgers.

"Actually there was no letter," recalls Dressen. "Mrs. Dressen merely typed what I felt I was entitled to, the principal item being a contract for more than one year. I had the notes with me when I conferred with O'Malley.

"Then Brick Laws telephoned from Oakland, where I managed before going to Brooklyn, and I accepted my old job. The next day I could have signed with Baltimore of the American League.

"I later took the Washington job because Clark Griffith wanted me. I admired the old man and we thought about baseball along the same lines. In Washington, I could have engineered trades that would have helped the Senators, but Clark Griffith died and Calvin Griffith didn't see things my way.

"At the World Series of 1957 Buzzy Bavasi asked me to return to the Dodgers as a coach.

"I have never applied for a manager's job. I have always been sent for and have had five two-year contracts since Walter O'Malley refused to give me one in Brooklyn."

Charley Dressen has a two-year contract in Milwaukee and, backed by the far-flung Lou Perini baseball empire, expects to stay much longer.

156th Guardsmen Slate Inspection

The officers and men of 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York Army National Guard, in Kingston and Poughkeepsie, will undergo their annual general inspection Tuesday, according to Major Arthur H. Marx, commanding officer.

This annual inspection is conducted by teams of officers and non-commissioned officers from First United States Army headquarters, Governors Island. The inspection will begin at 1 p. m. and continue through the day. A thorough check of all administration and maintenance will be made. Training and personnel will be inspected in the evening phase when all the Kingston units of the battalion will assemble for drill at the armory.

Normally, the local units perform armory drills on Monday and Tuesdays, with Headquarters & Headquarters Battery meeting Monday evening, and Battery "A" and Service Battery on Tuesday.

In Poughkeepsie Battery C will be inspected. Battery B also stationed there will not receive its inspection until March 7.

The officers and men will receive inspection in ranks and each unit will hold a formation separately in the huge armory drill shed.

LEGAL NOTICE

STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY COURT, ULSTER COUNTY
SAMUEL NEWMAN, RAYMOND J. NEWMAN, EVELYN KRAVETZ and FLORENCE DAMATO, Plaintiffs, against MATTHEW WODZYNSKI, Defendant.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale entered in the above entitled action, and bearing date January 20, 1960, I, the undersigned Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the Court House in the City of Kingston, on the 11th day of April, 1960 at 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon on that day, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Rochester, County of Ulster and State of New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a spike set in the center of the town highway leading from Mombaccus to Palentown, said spike being in line with a stone wall and being 169.1 feet distant measured northerly along the center of the road from the bounds of lands heretofore conveyed by Newman to one Yedlin; thence from said point of beginning and along the stone wall and the bounds of other lands of Newman and passing over a pipe set on the westerly side of the road north 30° and 49' west as the compass pointed in 1959, a distance of 233.7 feet to a pipe set at an angle in the wall and further along the wall line north 52° and 33' west a distance of 216.7 feet to a pipe driven in the ground; thence north 41° and 20' west a distance of 545.4 feet to a pipe set on the bounds of New York State lands; thence along said bounds north 49° and 23' east a distance of 271.3 feet to a stone set in stones, a New York State corner marker found; thence along the bounds of lands of Nerviano south 38° and 25' east a distance of 196.9 feet to an old stump and further along the same bounds and passing over a pipe on the line north 27° degrees and 15' east a distance of 274.6 feet to a rock oak tree and south 83° and 46' east a distance of 281.9 feet passing through a blazed maple tree to a spike set at the edge of the road; thence south 12° and 15' west a distance of 131.4 feet to a pipe set just northerly of the casino situate on the premises hereby to be conveyed; thence north 47° and 22' east a distance of 40 feet to a spike set in the center of the highway aforesaid; thence along the center of the highway south 3° and 23' east a distance of 459.1 feet and south 9° and 41' west a distance of 133.3 feet and south 21° and 7' west a distance of 187.8 feet, and south 10° and 28' west a distance of 113.6 feet to the point of beginning. Containing approximately 9.33 acres.

The party of the first part reserves the right to lay a pipe line to the well situated upon the premises herein described, and to draw water from said well for the domestic use of the children of Joseph and Yetta Newman and their descendants, it being understood that this right and easement to lay, relay and maintain said pipe line and to draw said water shall cease in the event this property is sold, conveyed or transferred to any person who is not a descendant of the late Joseph and Yetta Newman. The party of the first part further reserves a right which will run to the Newman family above referred to, to draw water from the pipe line of the party of the second part, and will only be required to pump water themselves when the pump which the party of the second part proposes to operate, is not in use.

Being portions of the premises described in the following deeds: (1) Harold W. Van Etten and Ethel Van Etten, his wife, to Yetta Newman, dated May 9, 1939 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 692 of Deeds, at page 132 on May 11, 1939; (2) Ralph J. Smith and Jennie S. Milton Man Held For Leaving Scene

A Milton man was fined a total of $30 or 30 days Sunday on three counts, including leaving the scene of an accident.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Fred S. Fowler of the Town of Marlborough and was sentenced to $10 or 10 days on each of the three counts. Oates, who was picked up by Trooper Wallace Mahan of the Highland state police, was still in the Ulster County Jail this morning.

Farmer Fined $15 For Treatment Of Baby Chicks

Salvatore Provenza was arrested by Ellenville state police for failure to provide adequate food for impounded animals.

Cpl. N. G. Lecakes said an investigation disclosed that 150 chicks out of some 3,000 had died.

The chicks were repossessed by Norman Hecht of Hecht's Hatchery, Walden.

The chicken farmer reportedly told Judge Poppel that the chicken business has been so bad that he was unable to afford adequate feed.

No Information In Finland on Blast by Soviets

HELSINKI — Police and press sources in Finland say they have no information to substantiate a published report of an explosion Feb. 2 at a Soviet rocket base across the Finnish-Soviet border. Police headquarters near the scene of the purported blast says it knows nothing of it.

The commander of Finnish border troops says there are constant small blasts across the frontier, since the Russians are building roads, but he has heard nothing of a big blast. Finnish papers to date have carried nothing about such an explosion.

Soviet Athletes Lead With Seven Olympic Medals

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) —Soviet athletes took the biggest batch of gold medals home today from the Eighth Winter Olympic Games.

The Soviet competitors won seven gold medals; Germany, four; and the United States, Norway and Sweden three each.

The Soviet Union also led in unofficial scoring with 165½ points. Sweden was second with 71½; the United States, third with 71; and Germany, fourth with 70½. The first six places in each event are counted in this system.

America's Cinderella hockey team climaxed the final day by beating Czechoslovakia 9 - 4 to clinch America's first gold medal in hockey competition history.

An unexpected dressing - room visit by Capt. Nikolai Sologubov of the Soviet team provided the Yankees with a tip that sent them smashing over six goals in the final period to win, after trailing 3-4.

Sologubov, whose team lost to the U.S. squad Saturday, suggested the sagging Americans take a whiff of oxygen to counter the thin air at this 6,200 foot altitude.

Olympic skaters had used oxygen during competition as there was no medical or competitive ban on its use.

Employer Finds Worker, Seven of His Family Dead

THOMSON, Ill. (AP)—An auto dealer trudged through heavy snow along the banks of the Mississippi River to reach the secluded house of an employe Sunday and found him and seven other members of his family dead.

The frozen bodies of Leroy C. Hensel, 59, his wife, Dora, 53, and their six children were discovered by Eddie Shuler, for whom Hensel worked as a mechanic. The Hensel children, four daughters and two sons, ranged in age from 7 to 17 years.

Dr. L. B. Hussey, Carroll County deputy coroner, said the eight apparently died of asphyxiation a week ago in the four-room house the family was building. An oil burner in the house was extinguished and the oil tanks were empty.

Shuler said he decided to drive to the Hensel home to see if Hensel was sick as he had not been to work at Shuler's garage in nearby Morrison since Feb. 9.

Shuler said Hensel had told him not to worry if he didn't show up for work. Sometimes because of severe snowstorms it took him two or three days to dig out. The house is a mile southwest of Ebner, a small railroad switching station south of Thomson in northwestern Illinois.

"But I decided to take a look and see if he was sick," Shuler said.

His car became stuck in a snow drift as he drove near Thomson. But Shuler, leaving his wife, their daughter and his son-in-law in the car, waded through the heavy snow to the little Hensel house.

"When I opened the door I was shocked," Shuler said. He found Hensel and his wife dead in folding cots in the living room.

Shuler said he left the house but returned in a few minutes to see if any of the children were alive. He found them all dead. They were Judy 17, Billy 14, Leroy 12, Susan 10, Patricia 8 and Jane 7.

Youth Is Jailed For Hitting Cows With Scraper

An 18-year-old Kingston youth was sentenced to 10 days in the Ulster county jail Saturday on a charge of cruelty to animals.

Howard Mertine was arrested by Trooper David Wachtel of the Kingston state police on the charge which involved striking several cows on the farm of Otto Bergmann, High Falls, with a floor scraper.

State police said Mertine struck the cows on their legs, causing wounds which required the services of a veterinarian.

Heads Lensmen's Speaking Panel On Upstate Tour

Panelists Named

Other panelists include John Freni, master photographer from Poughkeepsie and president of the Hudson Valley Photographers, who will demonstrate retouching methods; William Russ, National award winner, from Larchmont, who will present a demonstration on child photography; and Walter Hulse, from Middletown, past-president of Hudson Valley Photographers, whose subject will be "Chemistry of Developers".

Members of this panel were chosen by the Professional Photographers of the State of New York and form part of the travelling demonstration committee whose purpose it is to enhance the art of photography through demonstrations and educational lectures designed to keep members up-to-date and informed on techniques.

Other activities of the State Association include local section meetings, public relations advertising and establishment of a code of high conduct and ethics. The major highlight of the state's activities is the four-day annual convention opening Sunday, April 3 in Elmira. This convention is open to the public as well as members.

Plan All-Day Program

Another panel from the Travelling Demonstration Committee will put on an all-day program for the Hudson Valley Photographers at the Hotel Washington, Newburgh Sunday March 6. All non-members who are interested in attending should contact Fletcher, secretary, at the Photo Workshop, 616 Broadway, for reservations.

Do Not Forget Wife if Birthday Date Falls Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — If today is your wife's birthday, this is a bad year to forget it. She and 118,000 other Americans have been waiting four years for one.

Another 11,000 members will be born into the Feb. 29 club today, the census bureau estimates.

Without that Feb. 29 every fourth year, we'd be running into such things as white Fourths of July and hot Christmases.

Trouble is, the earth doesn't roll around the sun in an exact 365 days. It takes an extra five hours, 18 minutes and 45.51 seconds, notes the National Geographic Society.

But the correction proved a bit strong. The solar year gradually got ahead of the calendar year. By the 16th century, Pope Gregory had to decree no leap year in century years not divisible by 400. That's why 2000 will be a leap year though 1800 and 1900 were not.

Feb. 29 babies, when they grow old enough to celebrate their birthdays, latch onto Feb. 28 or March 1 during off years. During the reign of Henry VII the British Parliament actually authorized Feb. 28 for the purpose.

Home for Children Gets Legion Award

The 1959 Civic Award medal, offered each year by Lafayette Post, American Legion, for an outstanding contribution to the welfare of the community, will be presented to the Children's Home of Poughkeepsie, in Fairview, it has been announced.

Mrs. Baltus VanKleeck, chairman of the board of the children's home, will accept the medal on behalf of the home, at a Legion meeting and program scheduled at the post home, Mill Street, on April 5.

Steal From Cars

Police were notified Saturday of thefts from cars parked in the lot near Kingston Hospital. Dr. K. V. Kirk said his car had been broken into and a flashlight taken. Hjalmar Hult, Rt. 3, Box 34, Saugerties, also reported a flashlight taken and Margaret LaWatsch, of 10 Woodland Avenue, reported four books of green stamps taken.

3 Killed by Train

RONKONKOMA, N.Y. (AP) — Three members of a family were killed Sunday when their car was struck broadside by a Long Island Rail Road passenger train and dragged 480 feet from a grade crossing here. The dead were Edward Van Popering, 59; his son, Lance, 17, and Edward's brother Herman, 68, all of West Sayville.

Court Affirms Damage Claims Against State

A $75,000 damage award to William Wager of Kripplebush in an action against the State of New York for injuries which he sustained on May 19, 1951, has been affirmed by the Court of Appeals.

Wager, employed at Channel Master in Ellenville at the time of the accident, was a passenger in a car operated by William Rubin of Ellenville when the Rubin car struck the bridge over Esopus creek at the entrance to Kingston on Route 28. Wager suffered severe head injuries.

A claim was made to the New York State Court of Claims by N. Levan Haver and Charles Gaffney on behalf of the claimant. That action was tried in the Court of Claims which dismissed the claim. An appeal was taken to the Appellate Division by Haver and Gaffney. The Appellate Division reversed the decision of the Court of Claims and ordered a new trial.

For the second time the Court of Claims dismissed the claim and a second appeal was taken to the Appellate Division, Supreme Court, and that court again reversed the Court of Claims decision on the law and the facts and directed judgment for claimant in the sum of $75,000.

State Appeal Denied

This time the appeal was taken by the attorney general's office and argued before the Court of Appeals by Solicitor General Paxton Blair. Haver and Gaffney opposed. The Court has now denied the appeal by the attorney general's office and awarded claimant $75,000.

The Rubin car was proceeding toward Kingston at the time of the accident. It struck the bridge girder on the east side of the bridge and both Wager and Rubin suffered severe head injuries. Both were unable to recall anything which followed the accident. However, the trial testimony as to the facts surrounding the accident were given by other witnesses who testified as to conditions at the scene of the accident. This testimony was allowed on the basis of court decisions in another Ulster County case where a person involved had been unable to recall circumstances because of injuries.

Negligence Issues

Claimant contended the state had been negligent in maintaining the road at the scene. It was the question of negligent maintenance as contributing cause of the accident which was the main issue on the appeal.

At the trial it was shown there were inadequate signs at the scene at the time of the accident, that a survey had been made at night and engineers had recomended a light be installed. The recommendations had never been carried out.

Weather Forecast Given to Saturday

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Here are the extended weather forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today, to 7 p. m. Saturday:

Eastern New York—Seasonably cold with no major changes indicated through most of the week. Temperatures averaging near normal. Occasional snow flurries through the week with the next general precipitation period beginning Wednesday night or Thursday. Total water content ½ inch. Temperatures are expected to be too cold for good maple sap runs.

Western New York — Wintery weather is indicated with temperatures averaging a few degrees below normal. Intermittent light snow flurries Tuesday, moderating Wednesday and Thursday, probably followed by a general snow. Colder Friday night and Saturday with snow flurries and locally heavy snow squalls in the Great Lakes snow belts. An average of about 5 inches of new snow is expected.
